JUDGE SCOFIELD TAKES COMMON PLEAS BENCH

Sworn in by Predecessor,
Charles L. Justice, in Presence of 40 Witnesses

ASSUMES DUTIES TODAY

New Jurist Will Serve Unexpired Term of Judge Mouser, Ending in 1929

George R. Scofield is now judge of the Common Pleas Court of Marion County.
Mr. Scofield, elected on Nov. 2, was formally placed in charge of the court at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the oath of office was administered by his predecessor, Judge Charles L. Justice, in the presence of a company of about 40 witnesses, including members of the Marion County Bar Association, courtroom officials and a number of other citizens.

The ceremony was brief but impressive. It began with a few remarks by Judge Justice, in which he thanked members of the Bar Association for their friendly and helpful attitude during his term as magistrate.

After the oath of office had been repeated, Judge Scofield was escorted to the bench and closed the ceremony with a brief talk. He said that Marion County has always been noted for the splendid spirit of cooperation existing between the court and members of the Bar and expressed the hope and belief that this situation will continue while he is in charge of the court.

Starting today
Judge Scofield began his work as jurist this morning, the first case coming before him for hearing being that of the Weidmann Co. against Evelyn M.
Comer, a proceeding that had been carried to the Court of Common Pleas on an appeal from one of the local Justices of the Peace.

The term to which the new judge was elected is the unexpired term of former Judge Grant E. Mouser and will extend until Jan. 1, 1929. Following Judge Mouser's resignation, the vacancy was filled with appointment of Charles L.
Justice, with the provision that he should hold office until his successor was elected and qualified. Although elected on Nov. 2, Justice decided to delay taking charge of the court for a few weeks to give Judge Justice ample time for disposing of pending business and arranging all details calling for attention prior to the change.

Justice Plans
Judge Justice, who had presided over the Court of Common Pleas since January, 1925, turned to Page 10.

NO TRACE IS FOUND OF KIDNAPING RUM RUNNER

French Vessel Suddenly Puts to Sea with Prohibition Administrator on Board

New Orleans, La., Dec. 1.—No trace has been found today of the French rum runner, a vessel which was reported to have put to sea with a Prohibition Administrator J. B. Matthews and a chief mechanic's mate on board.

The coast guard cutter Tallapoosa has been in pursuit of the rum runner
since the reported kidnaping Monday, and it was believed the schooner was taking Matthews and his aide to Nassau or some other foreign port.

Matthews and the mechanic's mate were left on board the rum runner after their capture near Biloxi, Mississippi, while a patrol went after more fuel with which to tow the liquor laden vessel to the Mississippi River quarantine station. After the patrol boat left, the schooner suddenly moved off with Matthews and the mate aboard and has not been seen since.

CORONER TO MAKE PROBE OF DEATH

Police Find Two Bullets; Believe
Gun Fired in Dying
Man's Hand

Cincinnati, Dec. 1.—Despite the fact that Charles Schramm, 55, laborer, was clutching a revolver in his hand when police found his body yesterday, Coroner D. C. Handley, not convinced that the man suicided, today was to make a thorough investigation into the affair.

Because of the fact that one bullet from the gun had pierced Schramm's brain, while a second had punctured his heart, the coroner's jury declared that the dead man must not have lived long enough to fire the second shot.

According to the official, it would have been possible for another man to have done the shooting and then placed the gun in the dying man's hand. Few details of Schramm's past have been uncovered, it was said, and no motive for suicide or murder was known today.

FUND OF $100,000 FOR MENTALLY SICK PLANNED

Dayton, Dec. 1.—Plans to raise a fund of $100,000 in the state by the Association for the Welfare of the Mentally Sick, are being considered today.
The state has been divided into four districts with $25,000 as the quota for each.

Dr. Harry H. McClellan, superintendent of the Dayton State Hospital for the Insane, who has worked miracles in the treatment of insanity as a mental disease, is sponsor for the movement.

FALLS 50 FEET, GETS HICCUGHS

Cleveland, Dec. 1.—To fall 50 feet from a scaffold and suffer an attack of hiccoughs which has lasted nine days as his most recent injury was the experience of William J. O'Brien, a cement finisher.

O'Brien is a cement finisher employed on the new Union Station here.

Doctors have been waiting more than a week for the attack of hiccoughs to subside to operate on his arm which was also hurt in the fall. Hospital attaches today said the hiccoughs had subsided to a mere "sigh."

SOLICITORS TO SEEK REPEAL OF PENCE LAW

Want To Stop Collection of Utility Rates Under Protest

Repeal of the Pence law, under provisions of which gas companies and other public utility corporations are permitted to proceed with the collection of increased rates while protests are pending, will be sought in the next session of the state legislature by the Marion Solvitors' Association of Ohio.

Notions calling a meeting of the association for the purpose of drafting the proposed repeal are now being prepared in the office of City Solicitor Grant E.
Mouser, Jr., in this city and will be mailed out within the next few days.
The meeting will take place in the near future at Columbus.

It is under the Pence law that the Logan Gas Co., which serves Marion and about 70 other Ohio municipalities engaged in a fight against a boost in the gas rates, is now collecting on the schedule in dispute. The Pence law gives utility companies this right by providing that if a local board of public safety refuses to raise the rates, the company is finally cancelled. A board of this kind has been placed with the State Public Utility Commission by the Logan Gas Co. in effect since 1923.

The Pence law, which has been in effect since 1923, is unfair to the public, the solicitors maintain. They are supported in this contention by Governor Donahue and repeal of the act was also advocated by Myers V. Cooper, Republican candidate for governor in the recent election.

While there is probability that utility companies will offer stiff opposition to the repeal measure when it is presented to the legislature, its adoption is considerably facilitated by members of the Solvitors' Association.

In addition to the assertion that the principle which permits collection of rates in dispute is fundamentally wrong and unfair, there are charges

QUEEN MARIE LEAVING FOR BUCHAREST TONIGHT

Continues Christmas Shopping
in Paris; Carol Lies Abed Late

Paris, Dec. 1.—Queen Marie of Rou-mania will leave Paris for Bucharest at 8:35 o'clock tonight on the Simpa-rent Orient Express.

The queen was up early today. At 9 o'clock she left the Hotel Ritz for a continuation of her Christmas shopping which was begun in the United States.

Prince Carol did not change his manner of living, just because his royal mother was in town. The prince still found asleep at his family residence at noon, while Queen Marie had been up for several hours.

Loie Fuller arrived to see the queen during the morning, still insisting that her sudden departure from the queen's party in America had been of her own volition.

LAMBRINO'S SUIT IS THROWN OUT

Paris, Dec. 1.—Mme. Lambrino's suit against Prince Carol of Roumania was thrown out of the French courts
today.

The Seine Tribunal declared that it is incompetent to pass judgment upon the claim of the former morganatic wife of the prince for damages or public recognition of her son, as the son of Prince Carol.

During the trial, Mme. Lambrino introduced letters in evidence from Prince Carol, admitting paternity, but the court held that the action was beyond its jurisdiction.

MAYOR, FRIEND OF SANTA, SETS DAY IN HIS HONOR

OFFICIAL PROCLAMATION
WHEREAS the happy hearts of little children rejoice in Santa Claus, AND WHEREAS it is the duty of all kindly souls to aid them in their joy;

AND WHEREAS citizens of Marion, well beloved of youth, have come upon a dangerous mission to the Northland, and there has found the Christmas visitor, known variously as Santa Claus and Saint Nick;

AND WHEREAS the Marion Chamber of Commerce has undertaken to bring Santa Claus and his reindeer team to our city on Tuesday, Dec. 7,
AND WHEREAS citizens have undertaken together, acting in harmony and in true spirit of the love of 19th century children, to hold a great civic reception and parade, so that full honor may be done Marion's famous guest from Snow Hut Village;

NOW THEREFORE I, Earl Harn, being mayor of the City of Marion, in Ohio, by the powers, authorities and prerogatives in me vested, to all men do proclaim

THAT Tuesday, Dec. 7 in this current year shall be and is hereby named as Santa Claus Day, and I call upon all those who believe in Santa Claus to welcome him; I call upon those who love children to devote themselves to this occasion that the laughter of little ones shall ring in our streets, the mirth of the innocent shall fill the sweet music of the happiest, the joy, the free, free-hearted laughter of Santa Claus and his party shall stay with us and leave their influence in the love for others that they shall inspire.

WHEREFORE I have set my hand and the seal of the City of Marion has been affixed.

Done at Marion, in the State of Ohio, this first day of December in the Year of Our Lord, 1926, and of the Incorporation of the City of Marion.

(Signed) Earl Harn, Mayor.

SITUATION AT HANKOW STEADILY GROWS WORSE

Chinese City Placarded with Threatening Posters and Under Reign of Terror

Shanghai, Dec. 1.—The situation at Hankow where a general strike by Chinese servants, police and customs officials is in progress, is steadily becoming worse, according to messages from the river city today.

The city was reported placarded with threatening posters and under a reign of terror.

The Cantonese forces, said to be supporting the Chinese employees' demand for higher wages, have already invaded the foreign concessions, according to one report.

The foreign residents were said to be preparing for a siege by accumulating stocks of food supplies.

AMERICAN DESTROYERS ARRIVE AT HANKOW

London, Dec. 1.—The American destroyers, Pope and Truxtun, have arrived at Hankow with 400 marines and bluejackets on board, according to a Central News dispatch from Hankow
today.

GRAVE CONCERN FELT IN CAPITAL

Washington, Dec. 1.—While grave concern was felt here today over the situation at Hankow, China, where 629
Americans are menaced by Chinese revolutionary fighting which is of national character, State Department officials were unable to confirm that American marines have been landed there to assist the troops of other foreign powers in protecting foreign rights.

CO-OP CLUBS MEET

Columbus, Dec. 1.—About 270 members of cooperative clubs of Pittsburgh,
Washington, Pa., Buffalo, Detroit, Dayton, Cleveland, Cincinnati and Columbus are attending an all-day conference at the Southern Hotel here today. An informal dinner tonight will precede a theater party.

SANTA CLAUS TO REACH MARION EARLY TUESDAY

Will Rest Reindeer Over Sun-

Monday

PARTY PLANS COMPLETE

School Children in Surrounding Towns Being Invited to Entertainment

Santa Claus is fast approaching Marion. He is now in the United States, where he must travel slower than he did across the wide expanse of ocean and now in the northland and his progress will not be as fast as it was when he first left his home at the North Pole. However, he will be close to Marion by Saturday, and next his journey over Sunday, and reach his journey
Monday.

Santa Claus will arrive in Marion next Tuesday morning, to be the guest at the biggest Christmas party Marion children have ever seen. In fact, it is one of the largest of any such celebrations that State towns will witness tomorrow. Marion is now in a happy thrill, and the children of the city have all the children of the city
next Tuesday night.

Plans Completed
The plans of the Chamber of Commerce have now been practically completed for Santa Claus reception and the program which has been laid out for Tuesday evening at Marion, from 7 to 10 p. m. The children and schools around Marion, having every child and also the parents, to attend the Christmas party here next Tuesday afternoon.

Every school district in the county was asked and a special invitation described for the children, teachers and parents to come to Marion to see Santa Claus take part in the parade in the afternoon and join in the big Christmas party next Tuesday night.

Committee Hosts
The committee consisted of E. K.
Ulrich, Dr. N. S. Stitt, James Bonner,
Homer Washburn, Harry Woods, R. F.
Pfeiffer, Carl Ledder, James Woods and Wilfred Schabert.

Special provision is to be made for the happy children of the county, and the Rotary Club is going to take charge of this and of the entertainment, with the cooperation of the Aycockville Club. The crippled children will be brought to the party Tuesday afternoon in automobiles and have a fine chance to see and talk with Santa Claus and all his company.

The general committee in charge of Santa's visit to Marion has been named, and will have charge of the entire affair.

This committee is drawn from all the various groups in the city, and shows what general interest there is in the visit of this famous man to Marion.

D&G TAGS GO ON SALE AT AUDITOR'S OFFICE TODAY

City Health Nurse Gets First License for Her Pet
"Pedro"

Dog tags went on sale at the office of the county auditor in the courthouse this morning. The tags open each year on Dec. 1, and all dogs, half bloods, half breeds, and no breeds must be licensed with a tag before the first of the year, or face the chance of being seized by the authorities.

There were 3,063 dogs in this county
last year, and the tags are now on sale.
There are no figures available to show whether the dog population has gone up or down in the last year, but it is believed that there will be no decrease.

An affidavit of the county auditor, swearing to the name of "Pedro" will have the honor of wearing the number one issued in Marion County during 1927. "Pedro" belongs to Mrs. Mary
C. Hinkley, chief health nurse, E.

The second dog tag was issued to Clara L. Walcott, E. Center St., and her dog, named "Maud," will wear the number two during next year.

NOVEMBER FIRE LOSS IN MARION ONLY $600

Firemen Answer 15 Calls Dur-

Blaze Near City

Fifteen calls were answered by the Marion Fire Department during November, the monthly report compiled today by Chief T. J. McFarland shows. The total loss from fires within the city limits was low, totaling only $600, but one of the 15 calls, received from outside the city, was in connection with a blaze which resulted in a $10,000 loss.
This was the fire yesterday which destroyed the S. J. Lehman garage and its contents, including six automobiles, on the Harding Highway west of Marion.

The city's fire loss in November of last year totaled $7,175, which included $5,000 damage from flames at the Belmont Garage on Dixie St. The department responded to 16 alarms during November, 1925.

150 Pieces of Mail Sent from Marion to Dead Letter Office Each Week, Claim

WHEN a letter or parcel goes astray in the mails the post office and the postal employees invariably come in for some caustic comment by either the sender, the intended receiver, or both.

If some of these disgruntled persons could view the small pile of mail that accumulates in the post office every week, they would probably not be so free with comments. Their own letter or parcel might be in the pile.

It would seem that anyone would be bright enough to put an address on a letter after writing it and putting it in an envelope. But every week there are from one to a dozen letters and cards dropped in the mail slot at the postoffice and in mail boxes without a line of address on them. Sometimes they have return addresses, but not often.

Mail that cannot be delivered accumulates at the local postoffice at the rate of 150 first class pieces a week. This first class mail, bearing two cent stamps or more, and parcels are the only items in the mail given attention when undeliverable. Papers and advertising matter carrying only one cent postage are not sent to the dead letter office.

Some of the mistakes made by persons sending letters are ridiculous. The sender would certainly feel foolish if he knew just why his letter was delayed in the mail. Besides, failing to address mail properly most of these blank labels never think to put on their return address, which is the salvation of a letter that cannot be delivered. For it can always be returned if the postoffice knows the return address.

One rule that many persons do not think about in mailing letters is that unless a letter has a stamp on it it will not leave the local postoffice. If a letter has a two cent stamp on it and it requires four cents, the postoffice will forward it and collect at the other end. But with no postage a letter will not be mailed.

Misdirected parcels are not so plentiful as first class mail. Persons sending parcels generally have a pretty good idea to whom they want to go, and take some pains with it. Besides, the parcel is passed to the man who weighs it and sets the amount of postage and he can look at the address to see if it is sufficient.

Every postoffice gets a large amount of misdirected mail, or mail that carries insufficient address. At the local postoffice there is a special directory, in which blank labels are inserted between the regular pages, on which are written all changes in address, as reported by the carriers. This keeps the directory practically up-to-date, as far as it is possible to keep it. But after all the undelivered mail has been gone over in the postoffice, with the assistance of this directory, about 150 pieces remain each week, and must be sent to the dead letter office at Washington, where it is opened and often reveals the address of the sender. Money orders, checks, loose money and items of every description come from this undelivered mail.

Nothing looks funnier in the postoffice than an envelope enclosing a bulky letter without a line of writing on the surface of the envelope. Yet the postoffice gets lots of such letters in a year. There appears to be a certain number of absent or blank minded persons in the world who use the mails, and nothing that can be done will stop them from mailing letters without addresses.

Marion postal officials have one way of getting rid of some of the misdirected mail. There is a "Marion" in Indiana, and mail often comes here meant for Marion, Indiana. So postal officials here have a Marion, Ind., directory, and back through it for the name of the addressee, and are able to forward some letters to that place. Out in Marion, Ind., they work the same stunt.

One man spends most of his time in the local postoffice looking up misdirected mail. What is an indication of the expense the government goes to to see that mail is properly delivered. For in the larger cities a corps of men spend their time looking up persons to whom mail is wrongly addressed, and in Washington the dead letter office has a large force at work all the time opening and going through the contents of envelopes addressed to persons who cannot be located by any other means.

will not leave the local office. This is a rule of the postal department that is never broken by the local postoffice.

Only recently a local business man wrote a check for some organization in the east. He dropped the check into an addressed envelope which the organization had sent him, and which bore in the corner the name of the organization. The address was on the envelope in two places. But the business man forgot to put a stamp on the envelope, and his name did not appear on it in any place.

So the letter went to the dead letter office after it had laid around the local office for a week, and there it was opened, the check sent back here, where the writer of the check was notified. He supplied a stamp. Before the letter went to the dead letter office the organization to which the letter was addressed was notified that a piece of mail was here without postage, but no heed was taken of the notice. In all cases where mail is sent without any postage a notice is sent the addressee, notifying him that the mail will be sent only if he sends postage for it.

Misdirected parcels are not so plentiful as first class mail. Persons sending parcels generally have a pretty good idea to whom they want to go, and take some pains with it. Besides, the parcel is passed to the man who weighs it and sets the amount of postage and he can look at the address to see if it is sufficient.

Every postoffice gets a large amount of misdirected mail, or mail that carries insufficient address. At the local postoffice there is a special directory, in which blank labels are inserted between the regular pages, on which are written all changes in address, as reported by the carriers. This keeps the directory practically up-to-date, as far as it is possible to keep it. But after all the undelivered mail has been gone over in the postoffice, with the assistance of this directory, about 150 pieces remain each week, and must be sent to the dead letter office at Washington, where it is opened and often reveals the address of the sender. Money orders, checks, loose money and items of every description come from this undelivered mail.

Nothing looks funnier in the postoffice than an envelope enclosing a bulky letter without a line of writing on the surface of the envelope. Yet the postoffice gets lots of such letters in a year. There appears to be a certain number of absent or blank minded persons in the world who use the mails, and nothing that can be done will stop them from mailing letters without addresses.

Marion postal officials have one way of getting rid of some of the misdirected mail. There is a "Marion" in Indiana, and mail often comes here meant for Marion, Indiana. So postal officials here have a Marion, Ind., directory, and back through it for the name of the addressee, and are able to forward some letters to that place. Out in Marion, Ind., they work the same stunt.

One man spends most of his time in the local postoffice looking up misdirected mail. What is an indication of the expense the government goes to to see that mail is properly delivered. For in the larger cities a corps of men spend their time looking up persons to whom mail is wrongly addressed, and in Washington the dead letter office has a large force at work all the time opening and going through the contents of envelopes addressed to persons who cannot be located by any other means.

BURGLES WAY OUT OF JAIL.
Oak Park, Ill.—"I've taken up burglary as a life's work," James Stevenson told police, "and I'll burgle out of here." A few hours later police discovered that Stevenson had saved his way out.

SORE THROAT STOPPED IN FIFTEEN MINUTES.
Results Guaranteed or Money Refunded.
A remarkable new prescription for sore throat, known as Thoxine, is guaranteed to relieve the most irritated, painful throat in 15 minutes or it costs you nothing. Works on different principle. Far superior to gargles because Thoxine goes direct to cause of sore throat or cough—kills the germs, stops fever, chills and aching. One swallow enough. Also stops night coughing almost instantly. No chloroform or other harmful drugs. Safe for children as well as adults. 35c, 60c, and $1. Sold at Bradley's Drug Store, Stump's Pharmacy and all good drug stores.—Adv.

URGES BUSINESS TO HELP SOLVE FARM PROBLEM

Exchange Head Declares Cotton Grower Is Now Facing Bankruptcy

New York, Dec. 1.—A plea for the American business man to understand and help solve the problems of the American farmer in order to prevent a political and economic conflict between agriculture and industry was made today by C. O. Moser, of Memphis, Tennessee, president of the American Cotton Growers' Exchange.

"Through no fault of the cotton grower other than he was efficient enough to produce 4,000,000 bales more than could be consumed he is facing bankruptcy and the country as a whole has suffered a loss of $500,000,000," declared Moser. "It is more than a sectional debate being investigated by interested parties, it is a national problem and the nation's financial and industrial life."

"The wheat grower of the middle west has suffered a similar economic experience within the past few years. If the agricultural situation is not solved, 45,000,000 farmers will be ripe for radicalism."

Challenge to Country
"Such an economic catastrophe as the cotton debacle is a challenge to the intelligence of the country. A solution must be found either through private genius or through governmental agencies. The great mass of farmers, both of the South and middle West, do not believe the administration has made any conscientious effort to aid their plight."

Moser interrupted the interview to explain that he was speaking from his personal knowledge of the farmers' viewpoint and not as an official of his organization which comprises 300,000 southern cotton growers.

"The government has helped industry with its difficulties through legislation and there is no reason why it should not do the same for agriculture," asserted Moser.

"The business man and the metropolitan newspaper apparently do not understand the attitude of the farmer. The agricultural problem is a national problem of serious import and needs their study and support."

Might Force Alliance
Moser said that while the southern farmer felt his problems to be distinctive in many ways from that of the middle western farmer, that if the present cotton disaster were repeated often enough, it would force a political alliance between the two sections of the country.

Moser was asked his opinion on the drafting of the new McNary-Haugen bill for the stabilization of agriculture through the creation of a government corporation, to export surplus farm products.

Moser said he did not believe the members of his organization would be interested in the export feature of the bill.

"Cotton is unlike other agricultural products in that it needs world stabilization of prices," he said. "It can not have one domestic price and another export price."

Market Unsettled
Moser, who has just returned from an inspection of the European textile industry, said he had found the textile business abroad in poor shape, with the British market in the worst condition and France doing better than other countries.

"In all countries, the low price of American raw cotton had unsettled the market and affected the mills adversely," he said. "Quakers said that the low price of the raw material had forced them to sell the finished product at a low figure."

Commenting on the new Interstate Commerce Commission inquiry into cotton freight rates, Moser predicted that it would be found the railroads were charging too high a tariff.

Moser is leaving today for Memphis, where he will report concerning his trip abroad to his organization on Dec. 15.

141 BOYS AND "DADS" ATTEND FIRST BANQUET

Series of Father-Son Affairs
Gives at First Presbyterian Church

One of the series of annual father-son banquets to be held during the fall and winter months took place last night at the First Presbyterian Church with 141 "dads" in attendance. The program of addresses, entertainment and musical numbers was well planned and the Men's Bible class church.

Rev. Mr. Fisher, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, gave the address, acting as spokesman for the fathers.

for the fathers. In order that boys may have the advantage of wholesome and well-balanced development, he urged that fathers be "pals" to their boys.

There should be close association between father and son at all times and in all of their activities, he said. He declared that every father ought to take interest in the sports in which his boy participates and thus assist in the matter of physical development and training.

In the same way there should be co-operation and association in mental, teaching, social activities and religious training, Rev. Mr. Fisher said. The best results in the bringing up of boys can be obtained along these lines only by close contact between father and son, the least pastor declared.

Talks For Smiley
Rev. Mr. Fisher filled the place on the program that had been assigned to Rev. R. W. Smiley, First Presbyterian pastor, who was unable to be present because of the illness of his son, who underwent an operation in a hospital at Pittsburgh several days ago.

Following Rev. Mr. Fisher's address there were three talks by spokesmen for the fathers. These youthful speakers were Charles Barnell, Charles B. Merkel and Murray Goetting, sons of Jules V. Barnell, C. E. Merkel and R. L. Goetting.

The program followed dinner served at 6 o'clock by the King's Daughters of the First Presbyterian Church.

W. N. Harder, toastmaster, presided and group singing was led by E. H. Cowan. The Sunday School orchestra, directed by L. B. McNeely, played and special musical numbers were a vocal solo by Carmel F. Church, who sang "Memories" and a clarinet and saxophone duet by Misses Dorothy Crossen and Elmer Sage, who played "Sleepy Time Gal" to a piano accompaniment by Miss Dorothy Zieg.

The program closed by S. F. Crawford, a magician from Bayreuth, who entertained the company during the final half hour with a clever and mystifying sleight-of-hand performance.

Mr. Crawford, who is connected with the Straits Dry Cleaning shop in Huntington, has become adept at the magician's art as a hobby and has appeared in numerous entertainments in this part of the state. This was his first appearance before a Marion audience.

The banquet, pronounced as one of the most successful ever held at the First Presbyterian Church, was in charge of a committee composed of C. B. Merkel, A. C. Bachman, Carl Schell and V. C. Smith.

MCDONALD WANTS LAWS TO PROTECT RAIDERS

Declares Bender's Lawsuit Victory Sends Bootleggers into Private Homes

Columbus, Dec. 1.—Asserting that "the entire state prohibition department is threatened with demoralization" because of the $25,000 damages recently awarded to State Senator George H. Bender, Cleveland, in his suit against State Prohibition Inspector W. J. Patrick, Cleveland, Prohibition Commissioner H. P. McDonald today was considering urging the Ohio legislature to pass this winter to pass remedial legislation.

Fearing he might become involved in litigation similar to the Bender case, State Prohibition Inspector C. J. Frankfurter, Lima, will leave McDonald's department Dec. 5.

Frankfurter, who has been working at Toledo, joined McDonald's staff three years ago.

Stating that his agents now are afraid to raid private homes, lest they be sued for damages, McDonald said a state law should be passed defining the duties and rights of dry agents.

Bootleggers have taken to the cover of private homes and, unless some means of arresting them without endangering the prohibition agent with a civil suit are found, prohibition enforcement will be greatly jeopardized, McDonald said.

SEARCH CONTINUED FOR GIRL AND LOVER
Calm of Wisconsin Valley Disturbed; Posses Search Hills and Marshes

Prairie du Chien, Wis., Dec. 1.—The pastoral calm of picturesque Kickapoo Valley had yielded to frenzied excitement today as officers of the law and hundreds of private citizens continued their search for pretty Clara Olson, believed to have been murdered by her sweetheart, Erdman Sanford Olson, Gale College student and son of a wealthy tobacco grower. While posses were searching the hills and lowland marshes for the body of the girl, other marshes were hunting the alleged youthful fugitive.

The girl disappeared from her home Sept. 9 after confessing, according to her father, Chris Olson, that she had been indiscreet with her college boy sweetheart. She said she was leaving with Olson who had promised to marry her.

More than 150 bakers from Marion and surrounding towns and communities Monday night at Hotel Harding attended the special showing of the Fleischmann's moving picture, "What Shall We Eat Today?"

This film, showing the process used in the manufacture of yeast and how the product should be used to obtain the best results is being sent about the country and is being shown in centrally located cities of trading areas.

William Peters, New York City, special demonstrator, had charge of the presentation, discussing the product as the picture was shown. After the show baked goods prepared with the yeast was distributed to all those in attendance.

MORE THAN 10,000 ALIENS DEPORTED DURING WAR
Washington, Dec. 1.—The high water mark in the deportation of undesirable aliens was reached during the last fiscal year, when 10,904 aliens were arrested and deported to their country of origin, Secretary of Labor Davis announced today.

This is 1,400 more than were deported last year.

NEW INDICTMENTS
Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 1.—Seven new indictments were returned by the Fulton County grand jury today against W. D. Hanley, former head of the Bankers Trust Co. chain, and Paul J. Baker and John D. Russell, former officials of the bank. The indictments alleged that the three men received deposits in the Farmers and Traders Bank, a subsidiary, when they knew the bank was insolvent.

"BEN-HUR"

A MOTION PICTURE REVIEW

FROM start to finish, "Ben-Hur" is a picture of the greatest motion picture ever made, carries a suspense that has seldom, if ever before, been reached in motion picture. When the screen at the Grand Theatre where "Ben-Hur" opened a two-day showing last night flashed a short intermission and the lights went up, the audience relaxed in its seats for the first time since the picture started.

Part two of the picture carries the same element of suspense, reaching its height in the desperate rush of the chariot race. But throughout the picture there is not a moment when the audience loses its interest, there are no flashes of comic relief, or long runs of building up background when the spectators may take time to let their breath catch up with them. The picture maintains throughout a high level of interest seldom found in a picture billed as a "spectacle".

Three things in "Ben-Hur" contribute to this sustained interest: acting of both principals and minor characters, direction, and photography. All three of these are of the finest. No picture is perfect, and there are undoubtedly minor mistakes in "Ben-Hur", but they are not worthy of criticism when the picture as a whole is considered.

TWO points in "Ben-Hur" mark the high spots of the story. The first is the masterful handling of the story of Christ. Following the wishes of Gen. Lew Wallace, who decreed that Christ should not be portrayed in the stage version of his great story, the motion picture does not picture Christ in the figure of a man. But the story of the birth of Christ, the flashes of his life, and finally his crucifixion are told with a simplicity and beauty, both in acting, direction and photography that had an element of awe and reverence to the picture. These portions of "Ben-Hur" telling of Christ are shown mostly in technical, or color photography, and instead of "letting down" the interest, they maintain and even heighten it.

For the chariot race, which marks the peak of the story, as far as the "spectacle" is concerned, let it be said that the chariot race is told vividly but not with a simplicity and beauty, both in acting, direction and photography that had an element of awe and reverence to the picture.

that Christ himself was on earth. THE story sweeps to an end that is nothing if not awesome and yet inspiring and beautiful. At the end appears the hand of Christ, healing the grief-stricken outcasts, the mother and sister of Ben-Hur, whom he has given up for dead, and they are united. There is a flash of the cross on which Christ died, and below it the Roman centurions cast dice for his clothes, and then comes the storm before which the mob flees, the earth quakes, and the towering buildings of the Roman conquerors tumble to the ground.

"Ben-Hur" is a spectacle in so far as a gigantic production is concerned. There are the huge sets, the milling, nondescript crowds, the thundering chariot race and the clashes of the pirate and Roman ships, all parts of the standard spectacle.

But through "Ben-Hur" there is an artistic quality of acting and direction and photography, and a story well told that place it far above all former spectacles. (Reviewed by Ray Sattill)

Daily Proverb—"Seize the present day, giving no credit to succeeding ones."

That one-time self-determination idea seems to have gotten in its work in Mexico also.

The trouble with so many men who will admit a wonderful business knowledge is that they never had a business to run.

A sixty-five-year-old Massachusetts widow has eloped with her twenty-one-year-old chauffeur. The old ones are in a class by themselves.

Gloria Swanson laughed when she saw her husband in a screen test. They're not only the more dangerous, but the more vicious, and ruthless, as well.

We hear a lot about the human mind being attuned to flitch, yet "Able's Irish Rose" has held the boards in New York City longer than all the vile plays produced in that city in the last decade combined.

Just at present the members of the Wisconsin general assembly are contemplating higher pay with all the enthusiasm which ever attends the consideration of a salary grab.

While it may be true that the apparent profit on a barrel of beer sold up in Chicago is $57, there's this fly in the ointment of the saloonkeepers up there; they have to split up with the powers that be for looking the other way.

But even should the millennium get here, how could we be sure that it was the real thing till the glad-handers had held a get-together luncheon and the efficiency experts had directed a survey?

Till General Andrews gave us his solemn assurance that 3,000,000 gallons of whiskey are needed annually to brace up the sick and the indisposed, we never fully realized the magnitude of the work being done by medicine.

Tourists are said to have expended $37,000,000 in North Carolina in 1925. Possibly they were attracted by that governor-to-governor story, assuming that it was of recent vintage.

A cable says that the matter of King Ferdinand's successor will be left to Queen Marie. If so, and the story of the king's illness is not overdrawn, Roumania is due soon to have a gracious ruler of as high ability as any of her sex that has ever occupied a throne.

We note an article telling how taxes are going to be lowered by limiting the amounts which a political division may borrow. Every time we read how taxes are to be brought down and kept down we recall the Smith law, sponsored by our one-time fellow-townsmen, and what happened to it at the hands of the tax-eaters of Ohio.

To Improve West Center Street.

There is never any telling what will be the outcome of the endeavors of such a body as the West Center Street Improvement association, organized Monday evening, but if it does not work for the improvement of one of the chief thoroughfares of the city, and thus to the benefit of the city as a whole as well as the property adjacent thereto, it will not be owing to want of an excellent program or lack of live wires in its membership.

Repeatedly we have seen the efforts of organizations rendered comparatively futile as a result of efforts to cover too much territory; as a result of too many and too diversified aims for accomplishment. This has been the failing of some of our local chamber of commerce programs in the past. They covered too many matters of the present and in addition dealt with matters not possible of accomplishment within two, three and possibly four decades, matters the importance of which may be negligible when the time comes that the city is in financial condition to handle them.

These west center street business men have not fallen into this error. Their program is centered on the improvement of west center street, and they approach this improvement by three routes, two of them direct and one indirect, but all directed toward the one goal. They seek the widening of the street from Oak street westward to the section already widened from the railroad westward, to make it conform to the width of the street through the up-town business section. They seek an adequate storm water sewer for west center street and the resurfacing of that thoroughfare.

These are the direct routes by which they seek to improve the street. As the indirect route, they seek the extension of Mill street westward from Campbell street to give access by another street to the West Side. This will lighten traffic on west center street and thus not only add to its effectiveness in meeting traffic demands, but extend the life of the resurfaced pavement by thus lightening its traffic burden.

It's a fine program, and we hope the new organization will cling to it closely and refuse to swerve from it till the desired goal is accomplished and west center street is the up-to-date avenue it should be.

It's a worthy project, backed by a worthy bunch of fellows to whom this paper wishes every success in their efforts toward its attainment.

A Great National Problem.

Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover recently stressed the need of a great national policy for the development of our waterways, one feature of which would be "a uniform program for completing the whole Mississippi system," the capital cost of which, the secretary held, would not exceed $120,000,000 beyond present appropriations, and the time for the completion of which would not be beyond five years.

"We must have," said Secretary Hoover, "a larger, broader, more definite national policy and better organization in the development of all of our water resources—for transportation, power, flood control, reclamation—in order that we may bring them in as rapidly as national need requires. The Mid-West is primarily interested in the development of the Mississippi system, in navigation problems on the Great lakes and in the shipway from the lakes to the sea—a transportation system 12,000 miles in length. Better distribution of population, relief from burdensome freight rates imposed by the war and aid to agriculture and to industry will result from the development of these resources in the heart of the country."

We believe that it will be generally conceded that if there is one man, who, above all others in this country, has studied the development of our waterways and who is capable of judging our needs, it is Herbert Hoover. His observations are not those of the dilettante, but those of the trained scientist, those of one who takes to the study of such problems and the finding of their solution. Hence his views are entitled to and should command respect beyond those of the ordinary student of this great problem which means so much to the country's development.

To the secretary's view, the whole interior waterways system is a problem of greater depth—a six or nine-foot channel in all our rivers, stabilization of the depths of the Great lakes, the deepening of their channels and the construction of a great shipway to the sea. He holds that a unified connected system, with interconnection of the Mississippi and the lakes is essential. Disconnected though improved segments, he holds, are of no avail; the entire chain can be only as useful as its weakest link.

The opening of the Great lakes to the sea, Secretary Hoover says, is feasible and must come. The present obstacle to this is determination of the route, and that will be made speedily. Controversies between states and municipalities over the lowering of the lake levels will not bring relief as will the pouring of cement. They can be solved by engineering, not by law, for the largest problem is that of climate.

All must realize that the manner in which this country has handled the problem of its waterways thus far has been disconnected, illogical and in great part futile, so far as the development of continuous transportation is concerned. Our power development has not even reached the stage of a road beginning. Our flood control endeavors have been temporary rather than permanent. Our reclamation work has been as spasmodic as it has been sectional.

In the development of our streams as means of transportation we have cut a sorry figure. All who have watched our course for the past two or three decades know that our river improvements have been largely matters of barter. Almost countless millions have been squandered upon the improvement of streams upon which money never should have been expended. Rivers and creeks have been improved not because there was call for their improvement, but as the prices of votes for other projects. "It has been the case of one senator or congressman saying: you put me on the back and I'll put you. It is time for all such waste to cease. We should improve our waterways, but only such waterways as will answer for the needs of transportation or power or both. We should do our work of flood control and our work of reclamation as one great enterprise rather than as sectional projects. The whole matter should be handled as one great program, as Secretary Hoover holds out, and when it is thus handled we will have adequate return for the money expended, and not until then.

Blind Spots Traced to Indigestion.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Nothing is more disagreeable than to have a "blind spot." There are two kinds of "blind spots." In the one variety there is a permanent defect in some part of the field of vision of one eye. In the other variety there are times when for a period of a few minutes, or an hour or two, there is a loss of a part of the field of vision of each eye. If you look at your watch or at the clock, I can explain to you what I mean by a "blind spot."

Close one eye and look at the center of the dial where the hands are fastened on. As you look at this point, at the same time you can see all the numbers around the edge of the dial. That is, you can see all these numbers if you have no defect such as I am describing.

When you make this test, if certain numbers on the dial are not discernible, it is probable you have such a blind spot as I am telling you about today. If there has been an injury of some sort to the eye, so that the retina has been damaged, there may be a permanent loss of vision in one part of the field. In looking at the watch or clock, you may not see the figure two or the figure nine, or some other part of the field may be indiscernible.

What we call "sick headache" is often associated with partial blindness. There may be one small spot, or the entire half of the field of vision may be gone. In the latter case, it is as though you had placed a sheet of paper in front of one eye, cutting off one half the area you usually see.

The most common experience of this sort begins with a twinkling or dazzling of some part of the field of vision, when a spot of blindness is observed. This area may grow larger for a little while. Then there are scintillations and flicking of light. Gradually this symptom disappears and the vision returns to normal.

When these temporary blind spots take the form of a limited loss of vision, or of a loss of half a field, then they are likely to be associated with headache or a feeling of depression in the head. After the blindness disappears, the head may ache for the rest of the day.

The first thing I want to say to you about these temporary attacks is that they have no relationship to the ultimate vision. Indeed, they really have nothing to do with the structure of the eye. They indicate disturbance in the circulation of the brain, rather than a disturbance in the eye itself.

The temporary blind spots I have described, particularly those associated with headache, are due to mental strain, to indigestion or a neglected constipation, among many of these cases. Before there can be any permanent relief of these symptoms, the digestive organs must be put in proper condition.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

H. W. Q.—I am the mother of two babies and have a pain under the left breast extending up to the armpit; these pains come about every hour and any exertion such as yawning, running, lifting the children, etc., makes them worse—what would you advise?

A.—Probably due to neuralgia. Application of heat and massage should give relief. Try to determine the source of infection and then more definite treatment can be advised. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

C. L. Q.—What will cause a boy in his teens to lose about five or ten pounds and not gain it back for over a year?

A.—What exercise would you advise as good physical training for boys to help develop their bodies?

A.—Some abnormal condition may be responsible. See your doctor for examination.

A YOUNG MOTHER. Q.—If a dog plays with my little girl's playthings and she puts them in her mouth after he has had them in his mouth, will it hurt the child in any way?

A.—It probably would do no harm, but is not especially sanitary.

Some Questions of Interest Asked and Answered.

Q. What country has the best school-houses?
A. N. In school buildings, material, equipment and pedagogical experiments, America leads the world.

Q. When was the hump system of switching cars in railroad yards first used?
A. L. S. B. Records show that hump yards were maintained at Speldorf, Germany, in 1870, and also on the Paris, Lyons and Mediterranean in France in 1888. The first summit yard in America as far as can be learned was constructed by the Pennsylvania railroad in 1882 at Huff's station, two miles south of Greenbush, Virginia.

Q. How can I get a job as caretaker in a national cemetery?
A. F. M. In order to obtain a position as caretaker in a national cemetery, it is necessary that you make application at the office of the quartermaster general, war department, Washington, D. C. In order to qualify one must be an ex-service man and must have been disabled in line of duty.

Q. Is there any special kind of glass required for thermometers?
A. G. A. L. Authorities say that in thermometers that are to be used for accurate scientific work the bulbs should always be made of one of three kinds of glass. The first type of glass is a French glass which has been demonstrated to be peculiarly adapted for use in thermometer bulbs by the elaborate experiments made by the

One of the strong Mussolini newspapers in Italy attacks the Y. M. C. A. When the attacks are analyzed it is discovered that the only objection is that the Y. M. C. A. does as much good and useful work in Italy as the supporters of the Italian government so that the government could have the credit for it. That sort of attack amounts to a high order of praise.

Senator Couzens, of Michigan, worries about installment plan buying. He thinks it is not good for the poor man. Senator Couzens, worth $50,000,000, may be a bit out of touch with the way the poor man lives. Installment buying, handled with reason, is a great boon for folks with slender incomes.

It isn't pleasant for an aviator to be lost in a high fog. He doesn't know whether he is coming or going. Scientists are perfecting an "invisible ray" which will protect flyers in a fog. Think of the first motor car you ever saw—and the old dirt road. If improvements in the flying business are marked up as fast as they have been in the last fifteen years in the auto business, we have wondrous things ahead.

A New York preacher says churches ought to have "courtship parlors" where young people might meet under proper auspices. There is a hunger of the spirit, in young people as well as old, which is not met by material equipment in the church. However adequate and elegant. Ministers will do well to look more closely to their messages and less critically at their gymnastics.

There are few to praise the untimely bat. When the bat flies in at the window nobody welcomes him or says a good word. But he is the friend of man. Where there are bats there is no typhoid or malaria. A single bat can and will consume 3,000 mosquitoes as a night's work. Be kind to the bat.

We often say big things have small beginnings and prove it. On the other hand trivial things may have big beginnings. The game of blind man's bluff is not important in the history of the world. But when Jean Collin, a French soldier, lost his sight in battle—and then kept on fighting for France—he did a big and brave thing. And incidentally he gave the origin to blind man's bluff.

The battle that Jean Collin fought in was in the tenth century. That's a long time ago. After all, the results of any brave deed must live on forever. Surely, it matters is indestructible—and science says it is—the finer things of the spirit must also be indestructible.

Who's Who and Why.

CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW.

Chauncey M. Depew, ninety-two-year-old statesman, believes that the United States can never acquire too much wealth. In a recent interview he declared that high wages, the liberalization of great industries, and the new position of workers as shareholders will have much to do in solving the problem of larger and wider distribution of wealth.

Chauncey Depew has not sought fame in any particular field. Throughout an interesting career he has been senator, railroad administrator, corporation head, a candidate for the presidential nomination, party leader, and last, but not least, a well-known after-dinner speaker.

Born at Peekskill, New York, April 23, 1834, he was graduated from Yale university in 1856, being admitted to the bar two years later. He was elected member of the New York state assembly for the term 1861-2, and became secretary of state of New York the following year. He refused the appointment of United States minister to Japan, and was defeated for lieutenant governor of New York when he ran for that office on a Liberal-Republican ticket in 1872.

Much of his early manhood was passed as counsel for the then expanding railroads, particularly the New York Central, of which he later became president.

He was one of the outstanding figures at Republican national conventions from 1853 until 1901, and was the man who placed Benjamin Harrison in nomination for the presidency in 1888. From 1893 until 1911 he was United States senator from New York.

Chauncey Depew has been an orator on a number of memorable occasions, chief among them being the centennial celebration of the inauguration of George Washington, and the opening of the Chicago world's fair in 1893. His fame as an after-dinner speaker is likewise nationwide.

Vagrant Verse.

LEGEND.

Blood of my blood is legend;
None of my bone is truth.
Adventure drives its wedge end
Down woodland paths of youth.
My fancies fly, but my feet are bound
To well-worn highways of solid ground.

Blood of my blood is story.
The wild winds break and cry
Across far fields of glory.
With banners flying high.
Bayard and Arthur and Lion Heart—
The bugles blow and my pulses start.

Bone of my bone is wonder:
Which of these things can be true.
Old fables still crash thunder
Down from my midday blue.
Deep in my heart they still have power
To nerve my will for its darkest hour.

Heart of my heart is Odin, Minerva, Isis, Pan.
The chariot Hector rode in Leads on my marching van.
Trauer than all the laws of dust
Are these that keep my life in trust.

International Bureau of Weights and Measures at Paris. This glass is known as "verre dur." The other two are made at Jena, Germany, and are known as "Jena 10" and "Jena 50." This type of glass has similarly proved to be adapted for use in accurate thermometers by the experiments made at the Reichsanstalt in Berlin.

Q. How old is King Ferdinand? K. G.
A. He was born August 21, 1895, and is therefore sixty-one years of age.

Q. Why is a soap bubble round? How many surfaces has it? What causes the play of colors?
A. D. F. S. A liquid surface by virtue of the surface tension tends to become as small as conditions will permit, and a sphere has a smaller surface than any other solid of equal volume. This explains why a soap bubble is round. A soap bubble has two surfaces, one inside and one out. A soap bubble has many mirror surfaces and light falling on it is reflected back and forth from them so that there is interference among the various trains of light waves. This produces the variety of colors.

Q. On which syllable is the word conversant accented? M. D.
A. The accent is on the first syllable.

Q. What does the Russian word Cheka mean?
K. S. A. It refers to the secret service of Soviet Russia. The name is formed from letters of the Russian words Chetverchinskaya Komissiya.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

New York, Dec. 1.—A decided drop cost of living in New York is forecast for the next year. This is especially true of those who reside in apartment hotels. The war on an apartment hotel building is some months.

In almost every mid-town block have been raked down to make way for quarters. The servant and other people have relegated house-keeping to the streets. The process of absorption of the old mansions in this new freed seems the sensible way to live in a big city.

There is no dusting, sweeping, windowing or curtain-cleaning to do. A push electrical button brings a waiter or butler by the hour when company is available. Meals are swished up pip from well regulated kitchens via waiter.

And a tenant may lock up the place, moment's notice and be absent for days a feeling of security. There are no gossiping neighbors to discuss one's affairs, tubes, taxis and other modern conveniences are at hand.

Until recently an increase of 5,000 apartment hotel rooms a year was recorded during the process of absorption of the old mansions had their problem. Now in one year the increase has reached the proportion of 30,000 rooms.

These must be filled and it is obvious to fill them will result in a slash of the demand is here, but the plain fact is not enough persons with salaries to pay the very high rentals.

There are, by the way, very few floors in modern office or hotel buildings is a bow to the superstitious and the leap from twelve to fourteen. Very few occupy a thirteenth floor.

It is becoming strictly bourgeois formal dress. Saturday night dress is a thing of the past. The theatres and supper clubs are beginning to spot the wear evening clothes as aliens in a tattered herd. All the exclusive banister frowning on informal habiliments, sadder than proper on this night. It evening in the week when patrons may be distinguished from waiters.

An observing pedestrian has observed the famous twin stone lions in front of public library are not exact replicas. The lion the tail is curled toward the steps.

One of the most vivid touches of the stage has presented this season, a "hoofbeats" solemnly crossing the dressing-rooms before going out to ringside row. They do that in real life.

A cold light on one of those mid-dawn courtships and marriages was in a telegram from the room to his friend filed in a lonely village up the next day. It read: "We got drunk, and the hebegebees."

And there is that current story of a playwright who went on a protractor and awakened in a London hotel a single remembrance of crossing the ocean to his club: "In case any one for me I am not there."

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS.

There's a lot of talk down South in cotton. The trouble seems to be that so much cotton on everybody's hands, people are afraid of the cotton they never use. The South is working out the right, and they're not doing it by buying up cotton. They are going to get out of that cotton away in warehouses and there until people want it.

Well, of course, everybody talks a little extra cotton, and why the hell happened. And everybody has his sons. They resolve that there was over-planting of cotton and more, and to figure out some way of making a lot of cotton.

A lot of fellows was talking about situation down in Birmingham recently, and one guy thought up a best system I've heard of yet.

"Why," he says, "anybody's ever thinks the women are going to use so much cotton any more. What we've got to do is to take a good long look of the skirts and the tailors' stockings before we go out to plant a crop, and then maybe we can judge how much of the stuff to plant."—Copyright, 1926.

WHAT A REXALL ONE CENT SALE IS

It is a sale where you buy an item at the regular price, then another item of the same kind for one cent. As an illustration: The standard price of Klenzo Dental Creme is 50c, you buy a tube at this price and by paying 1 cent more, or 51 cents, you get two tubes. Every article in this sale is a high class standard piece of merchandise, just the same as is sold every day at the regular price.

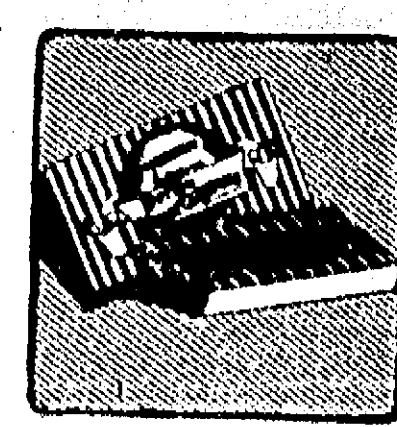

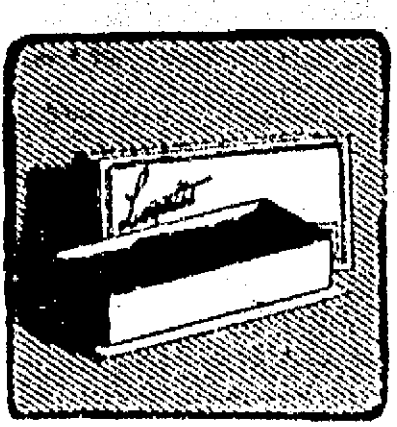

This sale was developed by the United Drug Co. as an advertising plan. Rather than spend large sums of money in other ways to convince you of the merit of these goods, they are spending it on this sale in permitting us to sell you a full size package of high standard merchandise for 1 cent. It costs money to get new customers, but the sacrifice in profit is justified, knowing the goods will please you.

PROF. ALFRED C. HOTTES, floral culturist, of Ohio State University, Columbus, entertained members of the Marion Garden Club with an interesting and inspiring talk on the general subject of flowers at the "guest day" meeting of members of the club last night at the home of Mrs. Frank A. Huber, E. Church-st. Over 60 members and their friends were in attendance.

The subject of Professor Hottes' talk, which dealt with the love of flowers, the pleasure and enjoyment that they bring the one who cultivates them, was "Flower Appreciation." His discussion was interspersed with anecdotes concerning flowers taken from his own experience and observation, as well as many beautiful verses of poetry, which he recited with exceptional talent.

Professor Hottes deplored the short life of a flower but concluded that "after all we appreciate most that which requires the most care to obtain, and the brevity of the flower's life only adds to its beauty and desirability while it lives."

He was accompanied by Prof. J. W. Reece, of the farm extension department of Ohio State University, Columbus, and Bertram Kleinmiller, of the Bureau of Nursery, Columbus. Professor Reece also gave a short talk, Dr. P. R. Mann introduced the speakers.

A light luncheon of charming appointments was served during a pleasant social hour. Baskets of pink roses were appropriately used to decorate the rooms.

Imperial Club Members Are Entertained

Mrs. E. B. Hamilton entertained members of the Imperial Club at four tables of euchre yesterday afternoon at her home, Main-st. Awards were presented Mrs. A. R. Yochum and Mrs. C. F. Custer. Mrs. W. E. Buckingham was crowned, Mrs. C. F. Custer will entertain the club Dec. 11 at her home, David-st.

Mrs. Bert Martin Entertains Club

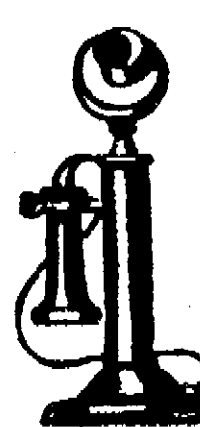

Mrs. Bert Martin entertained members of the Buckeye Club at lunch yesterday noon at her home, Edgewood-dr. She was assisted in serving by her daughter, Mrs. J. C. Foley. The afternoon was spent socially and with needlework. Guests of the club were Mrs. Foley and her son. The club will hold its next meeting with Mrs. O. E. Branton, Dec. 14, at her home.

Living
BACK TO NATURE
Loving

GIVE any movement a stirring slogan and it picks up speed.

Not so many years ago certain numbers reading the signs of the times professed to be greatly troubled over the fate of the nation.

"The call of the city is loud and insistent, and our young folks are heartily drawn to it. They are crying, 'Come back to nature with nature in her innumerable forms is becoming as nothing as compared to communion with one fellow man. The farm is forsaken for the flat. Soil is left to lie untillied under the sun while a living is earned by the sweat of the brow in the field factory.

Cement substitutes for a garden, and in parks only are there trees."

At last those troubled about such matters struck upon a happy slogan for their cause—the return to pastoral mode of living.

"Back to Nature!"

And into the tree open spaces went trooping scores of the city's finest. Some bought farms to plough and to sow.

Most built them houses in not too distant suburbs and remained content with their own patches of peas and potatoes.

THEY do say that, given a brief term of years, history repeats itself if not to the letter, then with variations.

"Back to Nature!"

It is becoming a catch phrase again but today the words convey a different meaning. Artificiality is once more taken to the mat, but this time in regard to personal beauty.

"Cosmetics may cause skin diseases and wrinkle removers may cause discoloration of the face," assert Drs. Hiram E. Miller and Laurence Tausig in a joint paper. Then they go on to particularize.

"Hair dyes not only damage the hair, causing it to become brittle and break, but they may cause the forehead to break out in a rash."

Have forced themselves upon her she must carry them to the end of her days? Medical science says she'd better!

However, there is on this account no reason for her indignity to feel that she is, in fact, considered quite distinguished. The best dressed woman now wears gray hair unshorn, even a bit proud.

"This is an astonishing proof of wisdom on the part of its possessor," declares a writer, commenting on the subject, "for gray hair is nearly always the best complement of the natural coloring. Protective coloring, we might call it, for we all know how hard the features appear under dyed hair."

And that's that!

"Wrinkle removers are dangerous. Often not the wrinkles alone are removed in the process, but the flesh as well."

THE doctors tell the truth, whatever the cost to feminine sensibilities. Very well, then. She who loathes her skin will not lose it on account of a wrinkle. So far, not so bad. But listen:

"Face powder, rouge, lipstick and nail polish may cause the skin to erupt because of the aniline dyes they contain."

Oh doctors, doctors! Really, now, it seems to us you are going a little bit too far. Lipstick, nail polish, even rouge (if we have to) we may struggle along without. But breathes there a civilized woman to consider her face powder? Who can even consider the possibility of a shiny nose and no puff with which to repair it? Dear sirs, you may not understand such things, but what you suggest is quite impossible.

There is little necessity for painting the face, and it is better to let the skin alone when it is in its natural state. To this extent sagacious woman will agree with you. However, everything has its limits.

Back to Nature but not too far back!

SIX ARE CONVERTED AT OAKLAND EVANGELICAL

Six persons went to the altar at the Oakland Evangelical Church last night, following the sermon preached by Rev. H. E. Williamson, pastor of the church, on the subject, "Obedience to Jesus." A total number of 10 seekers have acknowledged Jesus Christ since the opening of revival services in the church over a week ago. All meetings have been well attended and interest growing with each service.

Rev. Williamson chose as his text St. John 2:5. "Whatsoever He saith unto you, do it." The three points which he especially stressed were "Repent ye and believe the Gospel," "Ye must be born again," and "Tarry ye in the city of Jerusalem until ye be embraced with power from on high."

The subject of his sermon for the service tonight will be "Let the Children First Be Filled."

Second Leadership Training School To Be Held at Presbyterian Church

R. A. Garvin will preside as dean and Mrs. Roy W. Kauble as registrar for the second annual Leadership Training School to be held next week at the First Presbyterian Church under the auspices of the County Council of Religious Education. Plans have been made for a mass meeting at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church, when an officer of the state council will give an address on the school. According to plans practically all enrollments will be through the Sunday School Superintendents Sunday morning, but those unable to do this will be given an opportunity to enroll at the mass meeting or with Mrs. Roy W. Kauble, Cleveland-av.

It is expected by those in charge that this year's school will be larger and more enthusiastic than last, which was regarded as the most successful one in the United States. J. Mitchell Hays, who will be in charge of the young people's department, is the only new instructor this year, and comes highly recommended by A. T. Arnold, general secretary of the state council of Religious Education, who says his ability in this work is most unusual.

Other instructors for the week are Dr. Franklin McElfresh, head of the Religious Education Work in the state under the Presbyterian Church, Dr. James A. Verburg and Mrs. R. M. Sandy, who were instructors in last year's school.

The opening session will be held Monday night.

CHRISTMAS EXCHANGE IS ARRANGED BY GRANGE

Plans were made for a Christmas exchange at the next meeting Dec. 14 at the meeting of members of Grand Prairie Grange, last night at the school building. It was announced that early and popcorn would be distributed. The third and fourth degrees were conferred on a class of candidates.

During the program hour a debate on the question, "Resolved: that the button is more essential than the buttonhole," was decided in favor of the affirmative. Those taking part were Miss Maude Hill and Miss Twila Giffert, affirmative, and Donald Williams and Eugene Green, negative. Judges were John Barkley, W. A. Lucas and Roland Leeper. A playlet, "The New Hired Man," was given by Elmer Williams, Ralph Williams, Alvin Hawkins and Edwin Williams. A game, "Gathering Nuts," was enjoyed and later an oyster supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brady of Northfield Grange were guests.

MRS. J. H. DUNDORIS RELIEF CORPS HOSTESS

Mrs. J. H. Dundoris entertained members of the Woman's Relief Corps at a delightful dinner and all-day meeting yesterday at her home, Haines-av. The time was spent sewing for the Soldiers' Home at Sandusky. During a brief business session plans were made to assist members of Cooper Post at their dinner next Monday at the Community Home.

Charter Is Presented To Harding Area Boy Scouts Council By Cleveland

Representatives of Four Counties Attend Meeting at Hotel Harding; John H. Clark Installed as Chairman of Honor Court

Representatives of four counties and many Marion County villages, together with a large number from this city, last night witnessed the presentation of the charter to the Harding Area Scout Council at Hotel Harding.

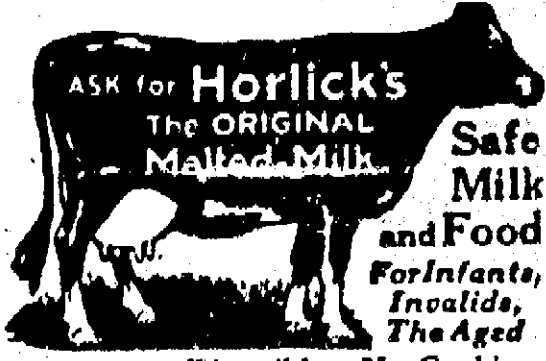

Walter C. Sharratt of Cleveland, representative of the National Council of Boy Scouts, presented the charter to Supt. Jesse H. Mason of Marion Public Schools, who received it on behalf of the Harding Area. E. C. Crall accepted the charter for Crawford County, Dr. C. Jensen gave acceptance in behalf of Mt. Pleasant, and E. H. McFarland represented Hardin County.

John H. Clark of this city, took his seat as chairman of the Court of Honor immediately following the call to order by Frank D. Glosier, president of the council. Those invited to sit in the court were Supt. Jesse H. Mason, William Symes, Chairman of Camp Committee Harry R. Adams, Scout Executive W. C. Brown, Scoutmaster Everett Motter of Kenton, National Scout Representative Walter C. Sharratt, S. E. Auck of Bucyrus, and Dr. C. Jensen of Mt. Pleasant.

Adams presented awards representing the camp committee, presented camp programs to 16 scouts who were then during the summer outing.

First class badges were presented to five scouts who had earned the premier rank by S. E. Auck of Bucyrus. The scouts receiving the honor badges were Arthur Schweinfurth, Robert Stoltz, Robert Bush, Hayes Newby and Russell Koons.

Representatives of merit badges to six scouts were next made by Attorney Clark, who awarded them to Harry Horsey, George Grotsch, Hayes Newby, Richard Walker, Robert Bush, and Ed-

Sessions will be held at 10 o'clock Friday morning and at 1:30 o'clock Friday afternoon.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT JUDGE SCOFIELD

5, 1925, will begin a term of six years as a judge of the Court of Appeals in the Third Ohio Appellate District on Tuesday, Feb. 28, having been elected to that tribunal in November as successor to Judge E. N. Warden of Napoleon. His associates in the Court of Appeals will be Judges Phil M. Crow of Kenton and Kent W. Higgins of Lima. The next session of the court with Judge Scofield as a member will be held in Lima early in February.

During the two months that he will intervene before Judge Justice takes his seat, he expects to have his time fully occupied with activities in connection with the State Association of Elks and the Ohio Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias. He is president of the Elks' Association and Grand Inner Guard of the Pythians' state organization. Approximately 15 official visits to Elks' lodges throughout the state are on the local jurist's itinerary for this month and he also plans to include many Knights of Pythias lodges in his schedule.

Judge Justice states that he will not engage in the practice of law during this two-month period, although there would be no legal obstacle barring him from that privilege.

Practices 28 Years

Prior to beginning his term of service as judge, Mr. Scofield, yesterday morning formally severed his connection with the law firm of Scofield & Harder. This action brought to a close a career as a practicing attorney which began in 1888 and has continued unbroken during the ensuing 28 years. It also removes the last of the Scofield family from office rooms which one or more of its members have occupied since the first year following the Civil War, when Judge Scofield's father began the practice of law there. The rooms are located above the Foley Bank on N. Main.

The late William E. Scofield, brother of the man who has just entered the service of Marion County as judge of its court, also practiced law in these same offices. At the time of his death, he occupied the bench in the court where his brother now presides.

Second Office

This is the second public office held by George H. Scofield since the beginning of his professional career, his first public service having been as representative from Marion County in the Ohio General Assembly in 1889-90. During the World War, he also served with distinction as chairman of Marion County's draft board.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT GAS RATE FIGHT

that experience has shown that refunds are not always made in full despite the giving of guarantee bonds.

Say It Is Fair

Utilities companies maintain that the system is fair because it enables them to proceed with development work which would otherwise be held up indefinitely, disputes over rates frequently lasting for several years.

When the fight against the Logan Gas Co. rate schedule started, all of the 72 cities, towns and villages affected by the proposed increase participated in starting the formal action in protest. Since then, a number of the smaller places have dropped out of the fight by adopting ordinances accepting the new rate schedule, City Solicitor Mosser stated today.

Marion and all other of the larger municipalities are still in the battle line and will remain till the finish, he says.

Final hearing of the protests is scheduled before the State Utilities Commission in the near future. The date will be set as soon as the gas company compiled additional data and in connection with its reports and expenditures requested by the City Solicitor. Following this hearing, a decision is expected from the State Commission.

DROP IN PRICE OF COAL IS NOT LIKELY, CLAIM

Local Dealers Say Slump in Wholesale Price Will Not Affect Retail

While wholesale coal prices have slumped from 55 to 75 cents a ton on the cheaper grades local retail prices are sticking at the point they reached a month ago, and there is little likelihood of a drop, coal men here said today.

Ponchartraine, the highest priced coal used here for domestic use, has not dropped on the wholesale market, and is selling for $11 a ton retail. Cheaper grades are selling for $10, $9 and down to $8.50 for Ohio coal. These may slump a little if the wholesale price continues downward, dealers say.

Retail prices here will drop within a week, it is said, only if the wholesale prices stay down. Dealers are not going to reduce prices now because the coal they have on hand is ordered at the old wholesale price, and until this is moved the lower priced coal will not be available.

Strike Settlement

Settlement of the English coal strike is not going to release any great amount of coal for home consumption for at least 90 days, coal dealers report. American coal men played safe this time when taking orders for export and the coal contracted for must be taken by the English firms and paid for at the contract price. When England imported a large amount of coal several years ago some American coal companies were hard hit, it is said, when the shortage over there was filled, and the demand ceased off here. The Americans were left down and out without a market.

Coal men here are banking on a cold snap within a short time to boost demand for coal, and this will put a premium on deliveries and keep the price steady. Open weather and the reduction in wholesale prices on the best grades of coal are the only things that will reduce local retail prices, they say.

VERNON HEIGHTS NINTH GRADE TO GIVE PLAY

Two One-Set Comedies To Be Presented at School Thursday Night

Students of the ninth grade, Vernon Heights Junior High School, will present two one-act comedy plays at the Central Junior High School auditorium at 7:30 p. m. Thursday under the direction of Miss Rheta King, assisted by Miss Mary Catherine Akeley and Alysene Crane, all instructors of the school.

"Just Like a Woman" is the title of one of the plays in which the following students will play the part of Joshua Alexander Smith, a farmer; Lowell Coulter, Bartholomew Smith, his son who lives in Buffalo; James Riley, John Austin Hazenstab, Polly's lover; Catherine Cheney, Mrs. Smith; Joshua's wife; Rosella Settles, Doris Duncan, a neighbor; Ethel Pray, Polly Pepper, a country girl who has been in domestic service in the city. The scene is laid on the Smith farm.

"The Millionaire," the second play, takes place in the sun parlor of a fashionable hotel on a midsummer night. The cast of characters includes Nyla Miller as Amy Ross, secretary to Miss Falkner; Robert Akron, Percy, chauffeur to Miss Falkner; Margherite Berg, Phyllis Falkner, an heiress; Emily Dale Wingett, Mrs. Hathaway, her companion; Richard Minshall, Alphonse, a butler; Lawrence May, Reginald Brook, a sailor; Robert Atkinson, Montgomery Montmorency, a poet; Hiet Martin, Mrs. Montmartin, his wife; and Richard Schweinfurth, Lord Harding, another sailor.

Proceeds from the play will be used for library and reference books, pictures and improvements about the school. Furniture for the stage settings was loaned through the courtesy of the H. C. Scherff Furniture Co.

who has been accepted as a part of the republican organization. Though this slight to Nye may wreak damage to the party, it was argued, the offense of Frazier is even more deplored because it came at the very moment when a tentative peace had been arranged.

Outcome In Doubt

The situation in the senate, in fact, had been so peaceful that administration leaders had turned their attention to the house in an effort to win back the Wisconsin insurgents who were expelled in March, 1925, for supporting the late Senator La Follette's presidential campaign. Now, the peace negotiations must be started all over again in the senate.

The peace agreement, which hangs by a slender thread, included the restoration to Frazier of all the seniority rights he lost when expelled from the party 21 months ago. While Frazier had not formally accepted the offer, there was every indication he could vote with the regulars on organization. The president's action, meanwhile, has placed the outcome in doubt.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT HALL-MILLS TRIAL

Gibson was giving her testimony from a bed in this courtroom.

Steads Affidavits

Simpson began to read 12 affidavits in which charges of laxity and violation of their sworn duties were made. One of these affidavits charged that Charlotte Mills, daughter of the slain chair singer, had seen, on Nov. 13, Juror No. 5 talking to Attorneys McGarrie and Stuber of the defense and that she also saw this same juror nodding several times.

An affidavit was read signed by Robert Connors, who is a night watchman for the First Peru Co. of Somerville, which said:

"About 7:15 p. m. on Saturday, Nov. 17, 1925, I was walking alone Main-st. between Taylor and Davenport-sts., Somerville, N. J. I saw William Force, of CHSST, Somerville, N. J., call one of the jurors on the Hall-Mills case, who was walking with a man I think is a constable. I saw them in conversation for about five minutes and they were still talking when I left. The man who I think is the constable stood about eight or nine feet away from the juror and William Force while they were talking."

Simpson then read an affidavit signed by Robert Lindvall, to the effect that this man saw juror No. 2 "nodding and apparently asleep."

Listen to Comment

Simpson read affidavit after affidavit, making the sad charge. In several of the affidavits, the witnesses stated that the jurors while eating in a restaurant on Main-st. were listening to audible comment on the Hall-Mills case made by the public. In court not far from Simpson was Gilbert Van Doren, owner of the Colonial Hotel, who made the first open charge against the jury. Van Doren several days ago wrote a letter to the court in which he said that the jurors left their doors wide open and that he frequently heard them openly discussing the case.

He alleged that they were lax in other ways about the hotel and stated today that three members of the jury are prepared to back him up in his charges.

Van Doren said he was prepared to go on the witness stand and testify.

It was reported this morning that three members of the jury who Van Doren says are willing to back up his statements, are Frank Dunster, foreman of the jury, and Charles V. Skillern and Raymond Young.

Defense Objects

"Mr. Abo Crim has sworn that at 7 p. m. No. 2 sleeping," said Simpson.

Mrs. Elsie Barnard has made an affidavit that she saw juror No. 2 asleep.

"Robert Connors has sworn that at 7 p. m. No. 22, he saw Edward Force, a resident of Somerville, fall in line with Edward Tillman while the jury was walking down Main-st. after supper."

Force is a son-in-law of Frank Dunster, foreman of the jury.

Simpson mentioned several instances where jurors were seen talking alone to outsiders. "The contention of the defense is we learned, will be that the affidavits were taken in last two days, yet certain to incidents taking place some time ago. They will argue that the prosecution played this card only when it saw that the trial was going against the state."

But the weight of the affidavits did not escape the defense.

MAN FINED $20

H. L. Williams, 45, arrested shortly after midnight this morning on Leader-st on a charge of intoxication, pleaded guilty when taken before Mayor Earl M. Hazen this afternoon and was fined $20. He is held at the city prison pending payment of the fine.

"Pretty bad," murmured Senator Case, aside, to his co-workers.

"You're right, it's pretty bad," responded Simpson who overheard Case's remarks.

A motion that a mistrial be declared by the court in the Hall-Mills case on the ground that the jury is biased and hostile, will be made in court today, it was announced by Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson.

Simpson is greatly agitated over charges that the jury has already made up its mind to acquit the defendants. Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her brothers, William and Henry Stevens, that they have freely expressed their views not only among themselves but also to outsiders and that they have manifested only a lackadaisical interest in the proceedings in court, one juror going so far as to doze while the state's principal witness, Mrs. Jane Gibson, was on the stand.

Gilbert Van Doren, wealthy owner of the Colonial Hotel, where the jury is quartered, has written to Judge Frank L. Cleary who is sitting on the bench at the trial with Judge Charles W. Barker, to the effect that nine of the jurors have expressed themselves as in favor of acquittal for the defendants while three are for conviction.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT SANTA CLAUS

Marion. The general committee is made up of Morgan Burke, general chairman, Mayor Earl M. Hazen, R. F. Fletcher, E. J. Schoenbach, Frank Glosier, Ray R. King, Harry Adams, Martin Verburg, James P. Prendergast, Morris Huhn, Roy Wilson, Dr. N. Siffrit and Addison Bain.

Santa To Visit Mayor

Santa Claus is to be the guest of Mayor Hazen at a luncheon to be given at Hotel Harding next Tuesday noon, shortly after he arrives in the city. Mayor Hazen is also inviting the mayors of all the cities and villages around Marion to be his guests at this luncheon, so that Santa Claus may meet them just as soon as he arrives and know that they are taking no interest in the visit, and that the citizens of their towns will be here to take part in the entertainment.

Parade Details

All the details of the parade, which is to be specially for the children, on Tuesday afternoon, are being left to the committee. This is composed of Chester C. Roberts, Jesse H. Mason, C. B. Rayburn, Rev. F. N. Cotter, Mrs. Gallagher, W. C. Brown, and Judge L. B. McNeal. This group will make all the arrangements for the children who will take part in the parade with the reindeer, the floats, the Eskimos and old Santa Claus himself.

A special guard of honor for Santa Claus, made up of children from every school in Marion and from every school district in the county will be chosen and will escort Santa during the parade. These children will be under eight years of age. They will be given the place of honor in the parade, escorting the sleigh in which Santa rides.

Will Drive to Home

Santa Claus will not forget the children at the Marion County Children's Home, and on Tuesday afternoon after the parade, he will drive out there with his reindeer and sleigh and see that they have their share of the big party.

There will be another meeting of the Christmas Party for Santa Claus committee at the Chamber of Commerce office tonight to see that all the details of his visit here next week have been completed, and that everything is in order for his eventual arrival.

RAILWAY MAIL CLERK HELD ON ATTACK CHARGE

E. Bishop, 42, Youngstown, charged with assaulting girl, 14

Youngstown, Dec. 11.—A railway mail clerk, E. Bishop, 42, of Youngstown, Ohio, is held at the county jail on a charge of assaulting a 14-year-old girl residing at 550 North Main street last night as she was returning from the Hooking Valley Railway station at Silverst.

Bishop was identified by her mother, Mrs. J. J. Bishop, who said she was called along the Hooking Valley Railway tracks by a short distance from the station and saw Bishop who started a search for the girl. After the girl had escaped, Bishop was seen making the girl escape from the tracks. Bishop was armed with a 38-caliber revolver and covered Bishop with the gun. The girl was taken to the hospital and is recovering from her injuries.

The girl's mother, Mrs. J. J. Bishop, was notified by Captain Moody and Patrolman Plaid H. Morrison, 297 North Main street, who were on duty at the time. They were called to the station where the girl was found. The girl was taken to the hospital and is recovering from her injuries.

JUNIOR HIGH STUDENTS STUDY CITY AFFAIRS

Members of Citizenship Club Visit City Hall on Inspection Tour

Students members of the Citizenship Club at Central Junior High School this morning watched the wheels go around in city affairs, during a visit to the various departments of the city government.

Under the guidance of Thomas Dunham, teacher at the school, the Citizenship Club was split up and sent in groups to each city department. At each office the students saw the city officials on duty and were shown the functions of the department in relation to the scheme of city government. Each group will draw up a report of the visit, which will be presented and discussed at the next meeting of the club, so that the entire club will get a picture of each department.

The students and the departments they visited are: Service department, Marvin Adams, Frank Cochran, Leonard Mead, Thomas Navin; auditor's office, Walter McGraw, John Decker, Charles Harris, Frank Thompson, Blair Scott, Paul Ebert, Fred Sabback; engineering department, Kenneth Hovick, Edward Baker, Gilbert Brooker, Charles Leffler; health department, Robert Knauss, Dwight Hargen, Raymond Veltzer, Jack Johnston, Thomas W. Minard, George Dull; police department, Edward Blessing, Arthur Snyder, William Thompson, William Schott, Leroy Kingle, Russell Botts, Joseph Williams; fire department, Ivan O'Brien, Kenneth McDaniel, Paul Lindsey, Lloyd Arthur, John Urye.

Another visit to the municipal court, and to some other departments of the city are planned for early in the new year, when the municipal court begins to function.

SAYS HARDING ADVISED ABOUT OIL CONTRACT

Formal Message to Senate Quoted in Trial of Doheny and Fall

Washington, Dec. 1.—President Harding was fully advised of the reasons for making the Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, oil storage contract with the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Co., and so informed the senate in a formal message in which he gave his endorsement to the transaction.

This fact was brought out today in the conspiracy trial of former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall and E. L. Doheny, millionaire oil operator, by Frank Hogan, chief defense counsel, who introduced into evidence a report to Harding from the Interior department, under date of June 2, 1922, and Harding's message to the senate under date of June 7, 1922.

Assistant Secretary of the Interior E. C. Finney, who was on the witness stand at the time, testified that he had collaborated in the drafting of the report on the oil contract.

Hogan did not read the Interior department memorandum to the jury stating he would do that later when the defense began its case, but he did touch on Harding's message to the senate, in which the former president said he knew all of the details of the contract and approved it.

The contract in question had been made with the Doheny company six weeks prior to the Harding message. "I think it is only fair to say in this connection that the policy which has been adopted by the secretary of the navy and the secretary of the interior in dealing with these matters was submitted to me prior to the adoption thereof, and the policy decided upon and the subsequent acts have at all times had my entire approval," wrote Harding.

"I am sure I am correct in constructing the impelling purpose of the secretary of the interior in making to me this report. It is not to be construed as a defense of either specific acts or the general policies followed in dealing with the problems incident to the handling of the naval reserves, but is designed to afford that explanation to which the senate is entitled and which will prove helpful to the country generally and in appraising the administration of these matters of great public concern."

Can't Exhibit Case

Hogan completed three and a half hours of cross-examination and turned Finney over to Mark B. Thompson, one of the Fall lawyers, for further questioning. Finney, who had been called as a government witness, is banked on heavily to build up the defense.

Thompson, who is a close friend of Finney's, brought out for the second time that the assistant secretary of the interior had played a far more prominent role in the making of the bases than had Fall.

The prolonged cross-examination of Finney precluded all possibility of the government finishing its case today.

Mt. Gilead Masonic Lodge Observes 75th Anniversary With Exercises, Banquet

Lodge Founded 20 Years After Town's Beginning; Asa Queen, District Lecturer, Delivers Principal Address on Program Following Dinner

Mt. Gilead, Dec. 1.—The 75th anniversary of the founding of the Mt. Gilead Masonic lodge was celebrated here Monday afternoon and evening.

The lodge was founded in 1831 and twenty years later Masonry became a reality in the village.

The greater part of the day was given over to exercises appropriate to the occasion, but the real program started with degrees work in the afternoon. At 6:30 o'clock, the members and guests assembled in the Monroe room at the Globe Hotel, where a four course banquet was served.

Carl Griffith presided as toastmaster over the program that followed the banquet. Rev. Daniel Hamill, pastor of the Mt. Gilead Presbyterian Church offered the invocation. H. C. Mozier, worshipful master, extended the welcome and the response was given by Hon. J. C. Criswell. Singing was led by E. B. Wilson.

Asa Queen, of Marion, district lecturer, gave the address of the evening. He spoke of the high points of Masonry and they have been associated with the progress of the world.

Interesting Program

Following the program at the hotel, exercises were continued at the Masonic hall, where a history of the lodge was given by A. W. Payne. Mt. Gilead Lodge No. 200, F. & A. M., was instituted Oct. 24, 1831. The charter members were: Wesley C. Clark, James Stinchcomb, Andrew K. Dunn, John B. Dumble, Andrew Poe, Theodore P. Gladden, Israel Hite, Judson A. Hoobe and Stephen T. Cunnard. Wesley C. Clark was the first worshipful master. James W. Stinchcomb was senior warden and Andrew K. Dunn, junior warden. The charter was signed by W. B. Hubbard, grand master and B. F. Smith, grand secretary.

The lodge held its first meeting Jan. 6, 1831, having been under dispensation at the time and chartered in October, 1831. David Smith Talmage was the first person made a mason in Morrow County.

EDDIE COLLINS, George Burns and Jack McCallister are mentioned to succeed Tris Speaker as manager of the Cleveland Indians. From here it looks as though McCallister has an edge on the other two, if the new manager is to be picked from this trio, which is by no means a certain thing.

Collins would probably not consider a salary which was a great deal less than he received as manager of the White Sox, where he was one of the highest paid men in the game. And, whether or not Speaker resigned because of a threatened cut in his pay check, the fact remains that such a cut was contemplated. And it is not likely that the management of the Indians would take on Collins at as great, or nearly as great, a salary as Spoke drew.

Burns might make a good manager, but he is an untried quantity. No one can underestimate his value to the Indians as a player. He is and always has been as hard a worker as any player in the American League. But could he take the team over and make a success of it? There is a big doubt as to his ability to manage the team.

McCallister has been with the Indians as scout, coach and assistant manager for 12 years. He is popular with the members of the team, and he knows baseball from start to finish. There are many who think that a great deal of Speaker's success with the team has been due to the efficient help of "Happy Jack". If the new manager is to be picked from these three, McCallister is our guess for the job.

But we do not look for a hasty appointment of a man to fill Tris' shoes. There are rumors of a contemplated sale of the club, and several syndicates are said to be in the making with the purpose of making the team Cleveland-owned. It is likely that Barnard et al will await the outcome of this phase before naming the new manager.

JACK DEMPSEY, until recently heavyweight champion of the world, is said to be almost blind. His handlers are said to have used too much cologne in patching up a cut over the champion's right eye just before the Tunney fight, and when Tunney landed on the lamp the blow affected the sight of both eyes. Dempsey is quoted as having said: "Beginning with the tenth round, I was almost sightless. If the fight had gone two more rounds, the referee would have been compelled to stop it. Tunney would not have knocked me out, but the referee, realizing that I couldn't have done myself justice with both eyes out of commission, would have been forced to call a halt."

GENE TUNNEY is "in wrong" already. His vaudeville net opened Monday in New York, and after the matinee the champion and his sparring partners were cited to appear in magistrate's court to answer a charge of "boxing in an unlicensed club". The New York State Athletic Commission is divided on the question of granting Gene permission to include a sparring match in his act.

ANOTHER international-heavyweight boxing match, to determine a "fictitious" opponent for Gene Tunney will be held in New York Thursday night. Jimmy Madison, the tough Boston boy, will meet Franz Diener, the German heavy-weight. In Madison's last argument, he eliminated the Italian entry for heavyweight honors, Arthur De Rube. If he is able to take Diener, a good fight will result when he meets his townman, Jack Sharkey, who recently disposed of Harry Willis. By the time Richard and Fugazy have held their elimination fights, neither of them will have to worry whether Tunney meets the man who emerges as the winner of the various tournaments. With the many European fighters now here and on their way here, and with the many big natives who are clamoring for a shot at the title, there is big money in sight for the promoters this winter and next summer.

DAN HOWLEY, who has been named to succeed George Sisler as manager of the St. Louis Browns, is the sixth manager to lead the club in the last ten years, and the eleventh manager of the team since St. Louis has had a team in the American League.

The first manager of the Browns was Jimmy McAllister, who holds the record of being the only manager of the team to last more than three years. Mac was on the job from 1902 until 1909. He was succeeded by Jack O'Connor, who made way for Bob Wallace after serving one year. Wallace had a year of it and was succeeded by George Starnett during the 1912 season. Starnett finished 1912 and started the 1913 season, but was displaced during the season by Jimmy Austin, who has been "pro tem" manager three different times. Austin served during 1915 until the appointment of Branch Rickey. In 1916, Branch Jones came from the St. Louis Browns and took the job off Rickey's hands.

Early in 1918 Jones resigned, and

County High School Cage Season to Open Friday

Six League Games to be Played by Each Team in East and West Sections

Agosta and Martel Have No Girls' Teams, While Claridon Is Not Represented by Boys' Outfit; Martel and Claridon Schedule Games Jointly

MARION County High School basketball season will open Friday night, Dec. 3, when the initial games of the east and west sections are played at Waldo, Martel, Green Camp and Morral.

With the elimination of a county tournament this year, the county has been divided into two sections, east and west, with six county schools in each district.

A basketball league in each section is composed of six schools, each of which will play six league games during the season. The leader of the league in each section will meet on the Star Auditorium floor at the end of the season to determine the county championship.

The athletic committee of the county, composed of Thad Stephens of Claridon, H. W. Rodock of Martel and M. J. Ellis of Agosta, has arranged the schedule for the league teams and all scheduled games must be played if the team wishes to be eligible for the county championship.

All county games will be played on Friday nights, and regular eligibility rules will be strictly observed, it was announced today.

West Section
In the west section of the county Agosta has no girls' team and when any other team meets Agosta boys the girls' quintet of that team will naturally be idle. In the east section, Claridon has no boys' quintet and Martel has no girls' outfit. To meet difficulties in the league standing in this section, it has been arranged that Martel and Claridon play together at all times when meet. The Martel boys will play the opposing boys' five while the Claridon team will play the opposing girls' quintet. All "home" games of the two teams will be played at Martel.

Schedules
The league schedule for each section follows:

Dec. 3—East section, Caladonia at Waldo, Pleasant Township at Martel for Martel and Claridon games, West section, Prospect at Green Camp and Latite at Morral.

Dec. 10—East section, Waldo at Kirkpatrick, West section, Morral at Agosta.

Dec. 17—East section, Kirkpatrick at Caladonia and Waldo at Martel for games with Martel boys and Claridon girls, West section, no games scheduled.

Dec. 24—East section, Pleasant at Waldo and Claridon and Martel at Kirkpatrick, West section, Morral at Prospect and Agosta at Green Camp.

Jan. 11—East section, Caladonia at Pleasant, West, Prospect at Agosta and Green Camp at Latite.

Jan. 21—East section, no games scheduled, West, Green Camp at Morral and Latite at Prospect.

Jan. 28—East section, Waldo at Caladonia and Claridon and Martel at Pleasant, West, Morral at Green Camp and Latite at Agosta.

Feb. 4—East section, Claridon and Martel at Kirkpatrick, West, Morral at Latite and Agosta at Prospect.

Feb. 11—East section, Kirkpatrick at Pleasant and Caladonia at Martel for game with Martel boys and Claridon girls, West, Green Camp at Prospect and Agosta at Latite.

Feb. 18—East section, Kirkpatrick at Waldo and Pleasant at Caladonia, West, Morral at Green Camp and Prospect at Latite.

Additional Games
In addition to the league games, each county team will probably look at least four games with teams outside the county. Each team is allowed six extra games in addition to the six in the league.

Rules adopted with the forming of the new leagues are to be rigidly enforced. Officials Green Camp and Martel before any interschool game to bench any player guilty of profanity or smoking on the floor or in the dressing room. Suspensions of this nature will ordinarily last a week but should the suspension occur three times, the player shall be declared ineligible for the remainder of the season.

Protests of any game must be made to the athletic committee in writing and signed by at least two reputable adults of that community.

Jimmy Austin took up the burden—again temporarily. Jimmy Burke was named manager late that season, and led the team for two years, being succeeded by Leo Fohl. Fohl departed in the latter stages of the 1923 season. Jimmy Austin again taking up the job. Sister at that time was having trouble with his eyes, and Austin "covered" for him until he was able to take the management. Now George has been succeeded by Howley.

CINCY MAY BUY COLUMBUS CLUB

Herrmann Leads Delegation to Capital to Consider Purchase

Cincinnati, Dec. 1.—Members of the board of directors of the Cincinnati Reds are in Columbus today to look over the property of the American Association club there, with a view to purchasing the Columbus club, it was reported here today.

It has been known for some time that the Reds' management was desirous of possessing an American Association club, and following their unsuccessful attempt some time ago to buy the Indianapolis franchise, the directors of the local team have had their eyes on the capital city aggregation.

Among those who left for Columbus today were the following: President W. J. Friedman, vice president Louis C. Wilder, treasurer C. J. McDiarmid, secretary, and James P. Orr, director.

DESPAIRED OF HELP FOR RHEUMATISM

Then found simple treatment that gave immediate relief

For years a prominent man of Townsend, Va., suffered the most torturing pain from rheumatism. When he lay down at night he could not sleep for the aching in joints and muscles. Then he began using Sloan's Liniment and it gave him relief at once.

"I want to say that Sloan's is the greatest rheumatism medicine that is on the market today. I tried every medicine that was recommended to me but Sloan's is the only one that did me any real good," he writes.

Sloan's gives real help because it doesn't just deaden the nerves. By stimulating the circulation, it helps the body to clear out the poisons that are causing the pain.

Just apply lightly without rubbing. Right away you feel a gentle glow of warmth and comfort, and in a short time the pain stops. Get a bottle today. All druggists—35 cents.

DUGANS HOLD TO LEAD IN NATIONAL BOWLING LEAGUE

Bentz Tires, Richmans Win Closing Games of Round

Jim Dugan's bowlers continued to lead the National League as the ninth round came to an end last night on the Y. M. C. A. alleys. Bradley Dugan are a close second, lacking only one game of tying Dugans. Atmanks, Bentz Tires and Richmans are tied for third position. Motorcycles still are in fourth place, Smart & Waddell follow and the Buicks occupy the cellar.

In the closing games of the ninth round last night, Bentz Tires and Richmans won two each from Smart & Waddell and Midland Mutuals respectively.

After dropping the first game, Smart & Waddell, Bentz Tires came back strong and rolled to victory in the second and third contests. M. A. Burnett was high scorer for the Tires, rolling 197 in the second game. His total for the match was 551 pins. Stenmetz was leading scorer for Smart & Waddell with 222 in the second game. He bowled over 200 in every contest, piling up a total of 621 points for the match.

Richmans managed to win the first game with Midland Mutuals by a three-point margin and took the second contest by a fair score, but were unable to win the third fray. Fahy and W. Baldwin were leading scorers for Richmans, each bowling 213 in a single game. Fahy's total of 527 led for the match. Stewart, with 192 points, was high scorer for Midland Mutuals.

ALL-AMERICAN GRID CANDIDATES

BY NORMAN E. BROWN

"DEATH" DOOLEY, Dartmouth quarterback, has found his head added under a basket this year due to the lack of a great line—usually a Dartmouth asset. However, this little quarter, whose return to the game this fall presaged great things for the Green team, is one of the greatest quarterbacks in the game. He is also one of the greatest booters, too. His running has played a big part in pushing back the opposition when the Green line has been fortunate enough to hold the opposition and get possession of the ball.

He is a triple threat man and must be considered with four or five other men in selecting the leading quarters of the year in the east and all over.

Sturabahn, of Yale, demands recognition in selecting the leading line-men of the year. He has played a brilliant game at guard for Yale all season, in the face of severe jolts handed the New Haven team by Army and Brown.

His defensive play against the powerful, well conditioned Brown eleven, was one of the high spots of the game, being unable to handle the entire Army line alone. Sturabahn was swept aside with the rest of the Bulldogs by the Soldier team.

Sturabahn typifies the new type of inner line-man which calls upon a guard to size up the play for himself and shift for it. Sturabahn is at his best on defense, although he holds his own with the best on offense.

CARRIGAN TO REBUILD CLUB
Wires Heine-Wagner To Do Scouting for Sox

Boston, Dec. 1.—Bill Carrigan, new Red Sox manager, started right in today to build up his ball club. His first move, after agreeing to sign a two-year contract, was to wire Heine-Wagner, Sox star shortstop in the Carrigan days.

Manager Bill wants Heine as chief scout. "The old infielder was one of the best scouts on the champion Sox of '15 and '16 and knows the Carrigan methods thoroughly."

Bill lashed himself today poring in to the dope of the Red Sox players and getting a line on all possible trades that President Quinn has been trying to fix up.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

Albany—Tony Vaccarelli, of New York, won on technical knockout from Johnny Rocco, of New Rochelle, N. Y., in fourth round.

Los Angeles—Mushy Callahan, junior welterweight champion, won on technical knockout from Paul De Hafe, of Compton, Cal., in first round.

The Hill team, also undefeated, will meet the group led by Dr. Frank Murphy at 5:15 on the lower floor.

Virgil Powell and Carter Patton will meet on the upper floor at 5:15 and Isaly's volleyballers will tie up with Roy Waddell's team on the lower floor at the same hour.

Betting Favors Walker in Battle With Tiger Flowers for Middleweight Laurels

Colored Fighter Striving Hard To Reach 160-Pound Limit in His Match in Chicago Friday Night; Challenger in Best Condition of Career

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—It was third down with two to go for Tiger Flowers today in his fight to reach the 160-pound limit for his middleweight championship fight with Mike Walker here Friday night.

When Flowers fought Sailor Huffman here Nov. 22, he weighed 165 pounds, five pounds over the middleweight limit. Since then, he has "downed" three units of the extra avoirdupois and has two yet to go.

When the champion resumed work this morning he weighed exactly 162 pounds.

It is believed he will have little difficulty in making the weight but whether or not the Georgia deacon will be strong at the division limit to retain his title against the hammering onslaught of the "made over" Mickey Walker is something else again.

The challenger undoubtedly is in the best condition of his career. He is stronger and faster, and hitting harder than ever before, as demonstrated in his recent fight at Boston with Jack Malone. If Walker succeeds in making the champion in the jaw with that sleep-producing right of his, it will all be over except the coronation ceremonies.

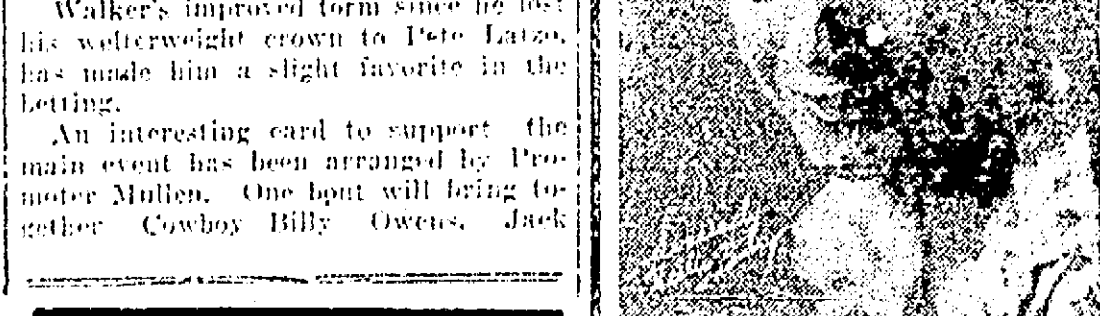

Real Champion
Flowers, however, is a real champion. What he lacks in punching power, he makes up in speed and strategy. If he is strong enough at the weight to shut off Mickey's explosive attack, he should stagger through a decision. At any rate, a real fight looks in the offing. It may be so close that providence will take a hand and decide it on the strength of the deacon's prayers before the battle. Who knows?

Walker's improved form since he lost his welterweight crown to Pete Lopez, has made him a slight favorite in the betting.

An interesting card to support the main event has been arranged by promoter Mullin. One bout will bring together Cowboy Billy Owens, Jack

Tex Rickard Declares Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney Fight Was on Level

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Breaking a silence that has been prevalent since several months in the past, Tex Rickard today gave out his opinion on the fight between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney. He said that the fight was on a level.

Don Morgan and Jimmy Johnston, famous managers, didn't agree with this and carry version of the fight, either, and said so. It seems they just didn't see it that way and they have seen much in the time.

Rickard's version was based on other promises. His defense of Dempsey was that the ex-champion was too proud not to fight.

"I know Dempsey too well ever to believe that he would do anything but fight his head off to keep the title," Rickard declared. "He was too proud of it to let it get away from him without making the effort of a life time. He's no different from any other man who held a championship. I never knew a champion who wasn't too vain to throw his title away and the great

him to be ready to start as soon as possible.

"Never mind," he said. "It will be over in a few minutes, anyway."

Dempsey sincerely believed that he could march out to meet Tunney and bowl him right over. He had been told that he could win it. He came out on roller skates and the idea that Tunney was a sap never left him until he was hit on the jaw in the first round. Then it was too late.

"As for me, I wasn't greatly surprised that Tunney was able to win. I felt all along that he was the better man for the shot. If I hadn't felt that way I wouldn't have had him in there. That's only sound business policy. No man, least of all promoter, can afford to give the public what it doesn't want.

"Here's another thing: I could bring the Dempsey-Tunney bout back again next summer without the slightest 'build up.' There's no doubt in my mind that Dempsey stands out as the public's choice as first challenger. Yet neither of us is in favor of this plan. I want him to meet one or two good men on his way back. He wants to prove to himself that he can come back before challenging Tunney. He wouldn't feel that way if the first fight had been phoney, would he?"

To the writer, it would seem that it is about time the case goes to the jury. A showdown, either one way or the other is simple justice to all concerned, including the 127,000 odd who paid and paid and paid at Philadelphia.

INTERCITY PIN LOOP PLANS ARE NOT COMPLETED

Ashland and Shelby Representatives Fail To Attend Meet

Plans for the proposed intercity bowling league, in which Marion was to be represented by the All-Stars, were not completed last night at the meeting of representatives of the various cities at Mansfield.

Ashland and Shelby representatives failed to appear and without all members present it was unable to arrive at any definite decision concerning the proposed league. Shelby bowlers, however, were word that they would join the league.

Other cities to be represented in the league according to present plans, include Marion, Gallon, Mansfield, Fremont, Buynus and Delaware. Tiffin and Sandusky may possibly join. It will be known definitely by Saturday whether or not the new bowling group will be organized.

The Marion All-Stars were represented at the meeting last night by Kopp and McMill.

Should plans for the new group materialize as expected, it will be the first bowling league to be formed among the cities of central and northern Ohio in recent years. Every city will be represented by what is considered its best bowling outfit and some real games are promised.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Fred Irwin, boxing promoter, will not do any promoting in Illinois for at least 60 days, it was learned today.

Irwin was suspended for that length of time by the State Boxing Commission for his poor handling of the Tiger Flowers-Sailor Huffman fight here Nov. 22. A lack of ushers and the resultant confusion over seats was the principal complaint.

CALEDONIA FIVES TO MEET WALDO QUINTETS FRIDAY

Waldo Conceded To Have Edge on Opposing Cagers

The Caledonia, as well as Waldo boys' and girls' basketball teams will make their debut in the newly organized Eastern Marion Basketball League, Friday night, when they tangle in a doubleheader on the latter's floor. The Eastern Marion League is one of two leagues formed by the Marion county athletic board for the determination of an official county champion.

Waldo is conceded an edge in both contests this week end. The Caledonia boys' quintet is an entirely new aggregation, all five of last year's regulars either having graduated or moved away. As for the Blue and White girls, Coach Broholm took charge of them but last week, and seemingly has a task on hand if he expects to whip them into shape for this week's game, in spite of the fact that several of last season's team are in school, and out for the 1929-30 squad.

There are about 25 candidates out for the boys' squad, and a little over half that many trying for places on the girls' team. The boys who are trying for the respective places are: Richard Wait, Alton Timson, Francis Lyon, Wilbert Kaelber, and Donald Ward, forwards; "Bill" Lyons, Hyman Chapman, Clyde Burnside, center; Bennett Wait, Edwin Baird, Donald Baird, Elmer Sharrock, Delmore Iden, Ivan Keeran, Harry Burkholder, Ralph Bayles, Paul Dice and Ray Geyer, guards.

The Blue and White institution is arranging a schedule of ten or twelve games, twelve being the limit allowed by the Marion county athletic board. Only the six league games have been entered as yet, the local institution planning on filling in the four to six vacant dates with non-league teams.

Miss Virginia Pen has lived up to her name by winning the St. Louis district golf championship for the second successive year.

ISALY DAIRIES TO MEET FOUNTAIN DRUGS TONIGHT

Isaly Dairy cagers tonight will meet the Columbus Fountain Drugs, runners-up in the Central Ohio Semi-pro tournament last year, on the Star Auditorium floor.

With the exception of one, every man in the above picture had an important part in defeating the Drugs in the finals of the tournament last year in their claim for the Central Ohio championship.

On the extreme left is "Bruz" Robbins, one of the finest guards ever seen on a basketball court. Bruz has been with the Dairies ever since they organized five years ago.

Next to Robbins stands "Newt" Minard, last-off man and one of the best basket shots in Central Ohio.

Then comes Applegett, a wonderful running guard, who is as good on his attempts at the basket as he is in breaking up his opponents' attempts.

Third from the right is a new man on the squad, Ray Miller, back guard, formerly of Purdue. Miller has broken into action here several times this season and is already well-known by basketball fans.

Beside Miller stands Fred Tschann, a clever fast-stepping forward, who has for five years held the reputation of being one of the snappiest and most accurate goal getters with Isaly Dairies.

And last but not least on the extreme right is "Dapper" Perry, a hitting running mate for Tschann, and a great co-worker of Minard.

When the Dairies face the Fountain Drugs tonight they will compete with one of the most dangerous outfits to appear here this season. Composed of all stars the Fountain will bring with them one of the greatest basket shots seen on any floor in Ohio last year.

Hinchman, of North High, Columbus, aroused sport critics last season with his excellent work and was seen in action against Harding High early in the season.

The Drugs are out for revenge for the defeat suffered in the tournament finals last year and will probably be "loaded" with several extra men. It was said today that only three of the men who played in the finals last year will be in the starting lineup of the Drugs tonight. Hinchman and Bob Shea of Wesleyan, replacing two of the old men.

The Midways will open the festivities at 7:15 with a game with the Martel Lion Tanners. Last week the Midways furnished great entertainment and were hailed with delight by Marion cage fans. This main bout is set for 8 o'clock.

Those in attendance last night at the meeting were:

Don Torrence, of the Presbyterian Church; Rev. Alfred W. Swan, Forest Lawn; Chester Biddle, Epworth M. E.; Rev. U. S. Davis, Trinity Baptist; John Hoffman, First Reformed; W. D. Scramton, United Brethren; Joe Baker, Calvary Evangelical, and F. O. Rudolph, of the Central Christian.

Churches giving their word for Intermediate teams were the Presbyterian, Epworth M. E., Trinity Baptist, United Brethren, and Calvary.

Definite arrangements for the Sunday School League will be made Thursday night, when team representatives will again meet with F. O. Rudolph, physical director of the Y. M. C. A.

A few churches last night asked concerning a Senior League and since plans have been made to disperse with the Senior group, Mr. Rudolph said today that the age limit for Intermediates would probably be raised to accommodate those who are unable to provide an Intermediate group with the present limit. The age division will be definitely settled at the Thursday meeting.

All entry lists will be required at the Thursday meeting. It is expected that several other Sunday Schools will be represented and the meeting and possibly eight teams will compose each league.

When the leagues are finally organized, all games will be staged on the Y. M. C. A. floors, with those taking part becoming members of the "Y" in order to be eligible to play. The

To the writer, it would seem that it is about time the case goes to the jury. A showdown, either one way or the other is simple justice to all concerned, including the 127,000 odd who paid and paid and paid at Philadelphia.

London, Dec. 1.—Gene Tunney has been discarded as the leading man for the motion picture version of George Bernard Shaw's novel, "Cashel Byron's Profession." It was learned today.

Tunney was reported as criticizing Shaw's story, which led Shaw to declare that he also had a right to criticize Tunney's fighting and to set up the claim that it was upon his advice and strategy that Tunney defeated Dempsey.

Carl Brisson, a Danish actor and dancer who has long been a matinee idol in England, is now slated to play the role once selected for Tunney. It is stated, Brisson has been well known as an amateur boxer. The Daily Sketch states that a French concern has offered Shaw $100,000 for the motion picture rights to the novel and Shaw's scientific collaboration. "This was the sum Shaw asked from American producers and which they refused to pay," it was learned.

Thirty-five candidates appeared at the first call issued and after many changes and additions, practically the same number are still in the running for positions. Only three letters were among the group reporting for practice.

The Drugs are out for revenge for the defeat suffered in the tournament finals last year and will probably be "loaded" with several extra men. It was said today that only three of the men who played in the finals last year will be in the starting lineup of the Drugs tonight. Hinchman and Bob Shea of Wesleyan, replacing two of the old men.

The Midways will open the festivities at 7:15 with a game with the Martel Lion Tanners. Last week the Midways furnished great entertainment and were hailed with delight by Marion cage fans. This main bout is set for 8 o'clock.

Those in attendance last night at the meeting were:

Don Torrence, of the Presbyterian Church; Rev. Alfred W. Swan, Forest Lawn; Chester Biddle, Epworth M. E.; Rev. U. S. Davis, Trinity Baptist; John Hoffman, First Reformed; W. D. Scramton, United Brethren; Joe Baker, Calvary Evangelical, and F. O. Rudolph, of the Central Christian.

Churches giving their word for Intermediate teams were the Presbyterian, Epworth M. E., Trinity Baptist, United Brethren, and Calvary.

Definite arrangements for the Sunday School League will be made Thursday night, when team representatives will again meet with F. O. Rudolph, physical director of the Y. M. C. A.

A few churches last night asked concerning a Senior League and since plans have been made to disperse with the Senior group, Mr. Rudolph said today that the age limit for Intermediates would probably be raised to accommodate those who are unable to provide an Intermediate group with the present limit. The age division will be definitely settled at the Thursday meeting.

All entry lists will be required at the Thursday meeting. It is expected that several other Sunday Schools will be represented and the meeting and possibly eight teams will compose each league.

When the leagues are finally organized, all games will be staged on the Y. M. C. A. floors, with those taking part becoming members of the "Y" in order to be eligible to play. The

him to be ready to start as soon as possible.

"Never mind," he said. "It will be over in a few minutes, anyway."

Dempsey sincerely believed that he could march out to meet Tunney and bowl him right over. He had been told that he could win it. He came out on roller skates and the idea that Tunney was a sap never left him until he was hit on the

HARDING MEN GET TOUGH WORKOUTS

Squad Cut When New Candidates Apply for Berths

Harding High basketball candidates are receiving some hard workouts on the high school gym floor this week under the direction of Coach Baldy Compton.

The squad was cut at the first of the week when a number of seniors who had been engaged in football activities applied for a berth on the basketball squad. Their appearance necessitated the "weeding out" of a few of the first candidates to come out in suit.

Practice sessions will probably continue on the high school gym court until next week, when Coach Compton will transfer his proteges to the Star Auditorium for a few lessons on the larger court.

Thirty-five candidates appeared at the first call issued and after many changes and additions, practically the same number are still in the running for positions. Only three letters were among the group reporting for practice.

What Features Do You Like Best in the Star?

"Don't Say Paper -- Say Star!" A newspaper in St. Louis spent years developing that one thought on billboards, in the daily paper, everywhere.

Marion people have, of their own accord, improved upon that slogan, for when the carrier fails in his regular evening delivery of The Star, the subscriber calls 2314 and asks: "Where's MY paper?"

We want The Star to be YOUR paper -- it is YOUR paper, and we invite your cooperation in our efforts to give you the very best news, editorials, comics, serials -- the best of informative and entertaining features to which any newspaper has access.

In the lower half of this page is a copy of a questionnaire which you will receive from the carrier boy next Saturday. Please study it a bit and mark your preference upon it. Then, when the carrier brings the real questionnaire you will be prepared to fill it in. He will, however, leave it with you, and we ask that you return it to him within a week. He will be paid for every signed questionnaire which he returns to this office.

Here is a list of the features appearing regularly in The Marion Star. They are grouped into Daily Comic Strips, Saturday Comic Pages, Editorial Page Features, News and Advertising Features. Indicate those features that you like and read by voting with an (X) after each separate question listed below.

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

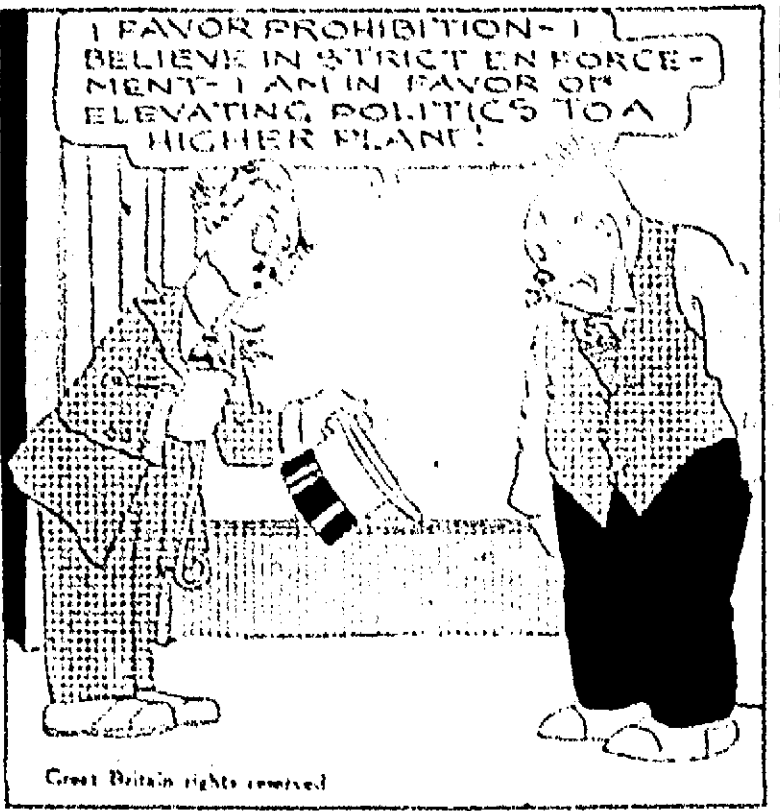

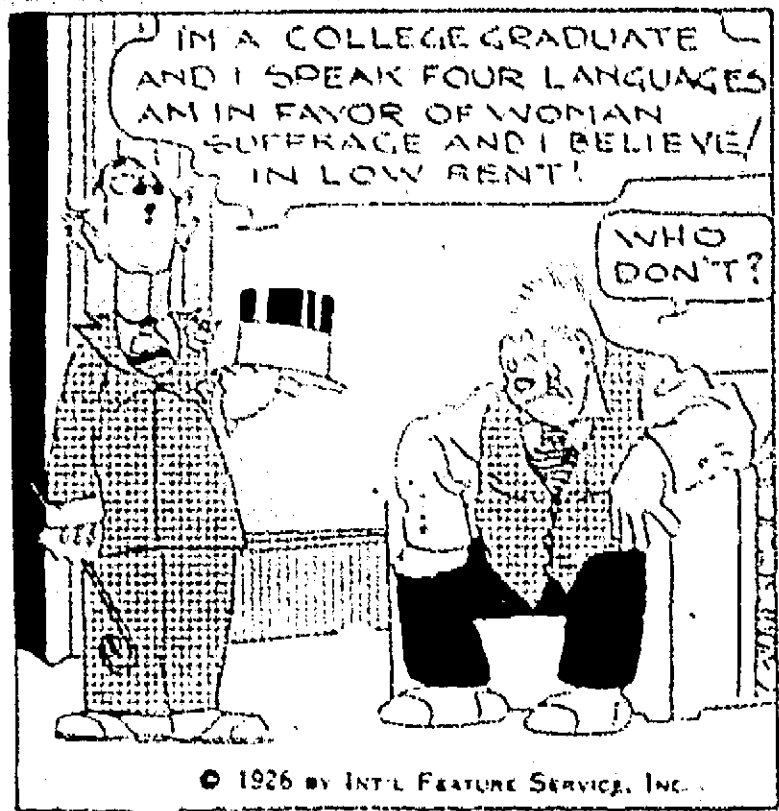

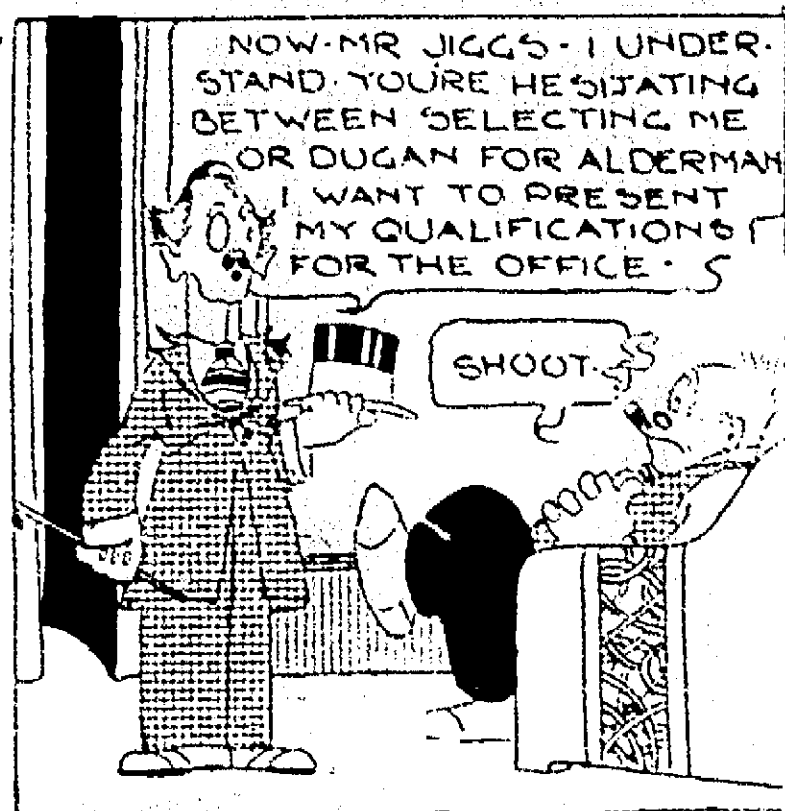

BY JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

I woke up this morning I told the teacher called the principle and everyone in school streaked it out for the cistern, and Hopper had been making snowballs, and he thought one of us would be the first to look in the cistern, so he was all ready with one and the principle stuck her head over the cistern and he cracked loose and patted her a hard one, and she straightened up and staggered around and set down in the snow. We were certainly scared.

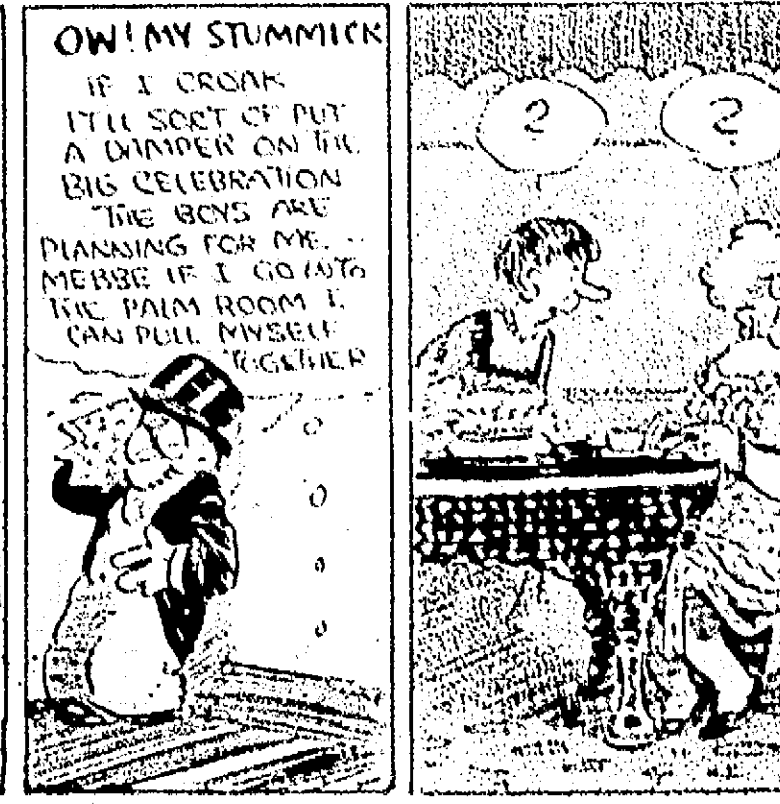

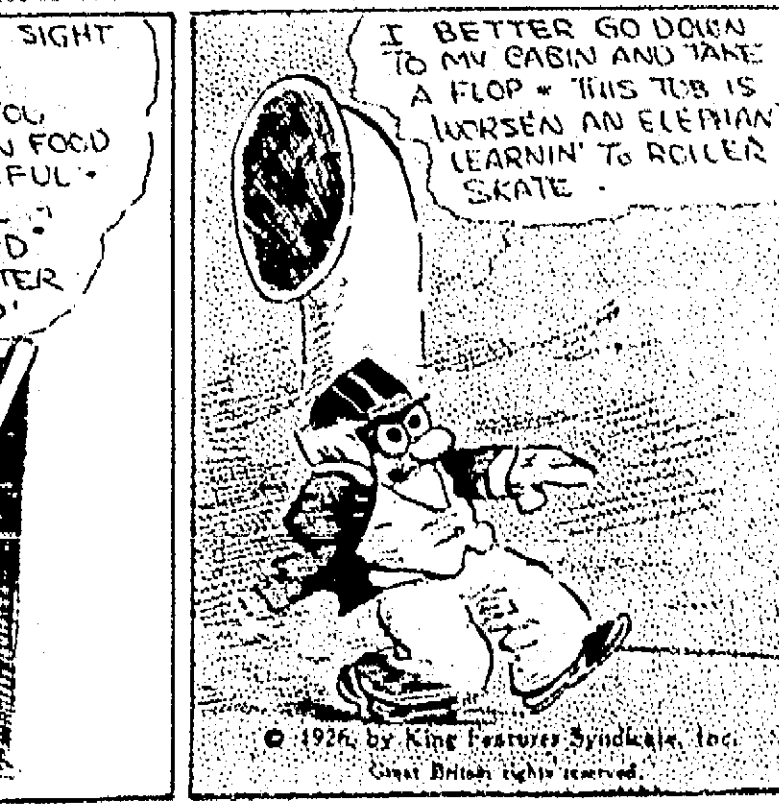

The teacher asked Hopper where his crutch was and he said it was lost in the snow, so she told him to look around for it, and he did and found it and we pulled him out. We thought we were pretty slick till we got back to school, and the teacher told us we could all remain after school, because we had acted a lie if we didn't tell one, so Peanut was not so slick after all. I told the teacher whilst we were staying in that actors act lies and got paid for it, and she said: "Well, aren't you getting paid for it?" I did not say anything.

My aunt went down cellar for a jar of fruit and propped the door against a chair just as she was coming up. Annabelle Lee pushed the door over on her and she went back down again. Everybody and me thought it was cute. I have not got any more Christmas money yet.

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

"Jinglebuns," said Baby Buntly in a voice like a lollypop one day as she sat up to the rabbit gentleman who was sitting in his easy chair. "Ob, Jinglebuns, will you please?"

"Will I please what?" asked Mr. Longears, who, though not exactly Buntly's father, let the orphan rabbit call him that.

"Will you please take us to look for Christmas trees?" asked Baby Buntly, speaking now, like two lollypops. "By that I mean her voice was very sweet and sugary."

"To look for Christmas trees?" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "It is much too early to do that."

"It is the first day of December," went on Buntly who was living for a time, in the hollow stump bungalow, and Christmas comes in December. Jingle and Jangle went out, yesterday, to look for Christmas trees, Daddies."

"And remember what happened - to them," said Uncle Wiggily. "Jingle fell down a dry well and, only that I had a clothes line and got a crooked neck squash for Aunt Lettie, to use as a look, Jingle might still be down in the well."

"Oh, but we'll keep away from wells," promised Baby Buntly. "Please Janglebuns, take us hunting for Christmas trees," and now she spoke like three lollypops.

"Oh, well, come on!" said Mr. Longears at last. He was very fond of Buntly. So, there being no school, he and his forty-seven little bunnies out into the fields and through the woods.

"Counting Baby Buntly, there were forty-two little rabbit children, girls and boys including Jingle and Jangle, and Jangle was all better from having fallen in the well."

"Now we aren't going to cut the Christmas tree today," said Uncle Wiggily as he hurried along at the head of the rabbit parade. "We are just going to look where, in the woods, the best trees grow. And a few days before Christmas I shall come and get it."

Now you might think it easy to pick out a Christmas tree for forty-two little bunnies, but when Jingle was satisfied with one Jangle wanted one that was larger. And when Buntly saw one he liked, Stumble, his brother, thought it wasn't quite thick enough. And so it went on, until at last Uncle Wiggily said:

"Now look here! This is all nonsense. Pick out a tree and have done with it. Soon it will be night and we are far from our bungalow."

Then the little rabbit children got over their fussiness and they all decided a certain tree was best. Uncle Wiggily marked where it grew in the forest so he could get it later. And while he was waiting for the bunnies to pick up from the ground a large white pearl button off some one's overcoat.

He put the white ribbon in his pocket and, after the tree was selected, he started to hop back home with the forty-two rabbits. But it got dark, sooner than anyone thought it would, and as the path through the woods was very narrow, they had to hop in single file, like the old Indians. Baby Buntly, who was next to Uncle Wiggily, behind him, was all the while getting lost.

"She could not see Mr. Longears in the dark forest on account of his black coat and so she continually went down the wrong path, wandering away and leading the other forty-seven boys and girls astray."

"Dear me! This will never do," said Uncle Wiggily at last when he had gone after and brought back the lost ones several times. "Why don't you keep watch of me, Buntly and follow closely?"

"I keep losing you all the while," she said.

35 COUPLES ARE MARRIED HERE IN NOVEMBER

Number of Licenses Issued During Month This Year Exceeds 1925

One more marriage license was issued during November than October, and six more in November this year than in the same month last year. Thirty-five couples decided to take the fatal step during last month, and nine of these waited until the day before Thanksgiving to apply for a license. In November 1925 only 29 marriage licenses were issued and only six of these waited until Thanksgiving before deciding to try out the theory that two can live as cheaply as one. November takes the lead in marriages for the fall months for both this year and last.

15 Divorce Suits

The divorcees failed to come anywhere near the marriage record during November, only 15 suits being filed during the month, while 35 marriage licenses were taken out. Divorce hearings were few during the month, but December will be a heavy month for such hearings and a number of untested cases will be heard in common pleas court during the month.

Suits for Divorce

Suit for divorce was filed in common pleas court today by Nellie Redman against James Redman, following the first airing of marital troubles in this couple in Justice M. O. Stoll's court yesterday. Redman was brought into court on an affidavit of his wife charging him with non-support. They have one child. Redman was released by Justice Stoll who said that no evidence was shown that he had failed to provide. Redman claims his wife left him.

Suit Dismissed

The suit of Edward Baker against James M. Baker and others has been dismissed. The suit was for division of property left in an estate.

932 Hunters Apply

Hunting licenses issued during November showed an increase over those issued during the same month last year. A total of 932 hunting licenses was issued last month, in comparison with 750 the same month last year. Hunting license business is slow now, with the close of the pheasant season, and the harvest wrought in the rabbit crop in November. Few licenses

NOVEMBER BUILDING COSTS TOTAL $23,395

22 of 38 Permits Issued During Month Were for Garages. Report Shows

That the automobile industry contributes largely to building activities in Marion is indicated in the monthly summary of building permits compiled today at the office of City Clerk H. K. Stoffer, showing that of the 38 permits taken out during November, 22 were for garages. This is about the average monthly proportion throughout the year. Estimated value of buildings in permits issued during the month totalled $23,395, which is regarded as above normal for this season of the year.

The list of permits includes five new dwellings to be constructed at an estimated cost of $11,000. Other important building projects started during the month were construction of a large cement block garage by the Bindley Grocery Co., a storage house at the rear of the Farmers Implement & Supply Co. on N. Main-st. and an addition at the rear of the Lenon Furniture Co. store on W. Center-st. Remodeling of six dwellings was also listed in the permits.

SON OF REV. R. W. SMILEY IMPROVING, REPORT

Robert Smiley, five-year-old son of Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Smiley, who underwent an operation for appendicitis in Pittsburgh last Saturday, is reported improving according to word received here today.

Mrs. Smiley and her son were visiting relatives in Pittsburgh when the child became ill. Rev. Smiley was called there Saturday. The Electric Home Is Not a Trick House

About fifteen years ago a French inventor designed what he chose to call an "electric home." It was full of trick signals, burglar alarms, odd lighting effects, dumb waiters, disappearing tables and bath tubs, a shoe cleaner at the front door and automatic alarms to call the guests at any desired hour, and many other surprising devices. Today—electric homes are NOT trick homes.
